CONVENTION AT NANAIMO

Grand Orange Lodge Will Open Three-day Conference on Tuesday

Special to The Times
Nanaimo, Feb. 10.—The Grand Orange Lodge of B.C. will meet here Tuesday for a three-day convention. Representatives from all B.C. points will be present. The Black Chapter will convene Tuesday with Mr. Brankin of Port Coquitlam, presiding. Sacred services will be held Wednesday morning at the First United Church, with Rev. Mr. Goodfellow, Princeton, grand chaplain officiating. The officials welcome will be extended by Mayor Barry to the visitors, who will be entertained and shown the historic bastion. Messrs. John McCormack and Gordon Craig, head of the local lodges, will lead the committees in charge of the entertainment. It is expected that 400 delegates will attend the convention.

U.S. Routes Closed To Preference Wheat

day when informed British customs authorities had refused to grant the 6-cent preference on a second test shipment of grain, forwarded in an effort to re-establish the Buffalo-New York route in opposition to the all-Canadian route.

"This decision may certainly be regarded as a victory for the Canadian ports and Canadian transportation facilities," Mr. Schofield continued. "It would appear that in this effort, those responsible fulfilled every reasonable condition. It was a final and complete attempt to restore the Buffalo-New York route at the expense of Canadian railways and ports."

REMOVES DOUBTS

Mr. Schofield stated this final ruling should remove all doubts regarding the Canadian route, "which both because it is more economic and more patriotic should now receive the full flow of Canadian grain exports to the United Kingdom."

"I regard the decision as a victory for the port of St. John," A. L. Foster, president of the Board of Trade, said today in commenting on the decision.

"Despite previous uncertainty as to the status of Canadian wheat shipped via United States ports, St. John has been handling wheat in increasing volume this season," commented Mr. Foster.

The decision is a far-reaching one in favor of Canadian ports and important from the view of a national transportation policy.

NO MORE TESTS

Winnipeg, Feb. 10.—Official announcement that a trial shipment of Canadian wheat carried across the Atlantic by the steamship Britannic, the second such shipment within two months, had been denied the British preference of six cents a bushel was received without comment by the shippers here today.

Smith, Murphy and Company of New York, agents of the Reliance Grain Company of Winnipeg, were the consignors, and the wheat was accompanied by documents which company officials thought would clear it under British customs regulations.

A cablegram received by the Reliance Grain Company from the consignees stated customs authorities had ruled against allowing the six-cent preference on the cargo, adding the shipment did not comply with regulations. The toll duty of two shillings per quarter would have to be paid, it stated. No further details were given.

While sponsors of the test were non-committal, it was not believed in grain exchange circles any further test shipments would be made. Every precaution had been taken in drawing up documents for the Britannic shipment.

ALBERTA SHIPMENTS

Calgary, Feb. 10.—Refusal of the British preference to the liner Britannic's wheat shipment, which arrived in England a couple of weeks ago, will not affect Alberta shipments as most of this province's grain is exported via Vancouver and other British Columbia coast ports.

Alberta wheat shipments, grain men point out, are made to the United States territory but travel over Canadian lines to the coast.

NO OTTAWA COMMENT

Ottawa, Feb. 10.—While word of the refusal by British customs officials of the six cents a bushel wheat preference to a shipment carried from Canada by the steamship Britannic had been received by the Department of Trade and Commerce, comment was withheld today.

It is understood the wheat shipped had been stored in New York for several weeks prior to being sent across in the Britannic.

The wheat, according to information obtained here, was shipped from Winnipeg via Buffalo, billed through to the United Kingdom. When it reached New York, however, instead of being placed in a vessel immediately, it was stored for some weeks. Then it was taken out of storage and shipped.

Apparently such a method of shipment will not qualify Canadian wheat for the preference obtained by Canada at the Imperial Conference here.

Probably refusal of the preference to this shipment will be the subject of questions in the House of Commons.

GAS TANK BLOWS UP, KILLING OVER 100

Strasbourg, France, Feb. 10.—More than 100 persons were reported to have been killed today when a huge gas storage tank at the Neukirch steel works in the Saar Valley exploded.

Details of the accident could not be learned immediately. A truckload of the injured was

CHINA, RUSSIA DRAW CLOSER

Tokio, Feb. 10.—An official statement that Japan will reply with an emphatic "no" to a League of Nations request for a statement of Japan's attitude toward discontinuance of the present Manchukuo government was partially qualified later today.

"Our negative reply is almost a foregone conclusion, but we must proceed with the utmost prudence," said a government spokesman.

Foreign Minister Yasuoka Uchida today instructed Yosuke Matsuoka, special Japanese counsel at Geneva, to submit the draft of his reply to the League committee of nineteen to Tokyo before handing it to the League officials.

Hence, Japan's answer is likely to be postponed two or three days while the cabinet studies the matter.

DEFENSIVE AND OFFENSIVE ALLIANCE SIGNED, SAYS JAPANESE FOREIGN OFFICE

Tokio, Feb. 10.—The Foreign Office intimated today that China and Russia had signed a defensive and offensive alliance.

The bureau published a report from the Japanese legation in Shanghai that Eusebio Chen had returned to Shanghai from Paris, where he had assisted in negotiations leading to a resumption of Chinese-Russian diplomatic relations.

Dr. Chen, former Cantonese Foreign Minister and former Foreign Minister of the Nanking Government, "let it be known," the Foreign Office stated, "that he also had helped negotiate a defensive-offensive pact."

This treaty, the report went on, would be kept secret until the resumption of American and Russian diplomatic relations.

A Foreign Office spokesman, with no official comment, handed the report to correspondents as "interesting news."

W. H. HARVEY, VANCOUVER, DIES

Vancouver, Feb. 10.—The death was mourned today of William Henry Harvey, a retired Vancouver business man, who died at his home on Cypress Street, aged eighty-eight, following a short illness.

Born in Glasgow, he migrated to Canada when a young man. He came to Vancouver in 1900 after many years spent in Ontario and the eastern United States.

He organized the Dominion Crossing and Lumber Company and was instrumental in building its plant, the Dominion Mills, in South Vancouver. He sold his interest in that organization to the Robertson and Hackett Sawmill Company in 1923.

He was for many years a member of the Vancouver Club.

His widow, formerly Miss Helen Watt of Brantford, Ont., whom he married in 1877, he is survived by one daughter, Miss Isabel Harvey, and two sons, William W. and Norman L. Harvey, and four grandchildren.

Another son, Allan Harvey, was killed overseas in the Great War.

The funeral service will be held at 1 p.m. tomorrow.

RANCHER DIES

Ashcroft, B.C., Feb. 10 (Canadian Press).—Word has reached here of the death near Lone Butte of R. T. Turner, who passed away while being taken to hospital by ambulance.

He was about sixty years of age and had been a ranchman for many years. He was taken to hospital for medical aid. Death was due to influenza. He was about twenty-eight years of age and had recently acquired what is known as the McDonald ranch, about six miles east of Bridge Lake. He was planning to put 1,500 sheep on the property in the spring. The body was taken to Vernon for burial.

In an appeal to the citizens who are working "manifest human interest" in the less fortunate, the unemployed, Mayor W. J. Stewart revealed that approximately 100,000 people—one seventh of British Columbia's population—are now on direct relief.

The mutineers had been running wild for five days on the Indian Ocean with eight of their Dutch officers held prisoners.

The mutiny culminated in a series of similar actions by natives. Even Dutch sailors themselves refused to attend a regular morning parade less than two weeks ago. This was smoothed over, but when native sailors did the same thing last Friday, it was not settled so quickly. They continued to disobey orders and 420 officers were arrested.

The eight officers who remained aboard De Zeven were not harmed.

REPORTERS WITNESSES

Three on Stand at William J. Guy Hearing at Long Beach, Cal.

Long Beach, Calif., Feb. 10.—Amid state objections, the defence opened its case in the murder trial of William J. Guy today by an attempt to break down the prosecution's identification of Guy as the man who appeared on the schooner Carmichael shortly before the murder.

The conflict between counsel broke out after the defence had called several reporters as witnesses.

Eugene McGann, chief defence counsel, in summoning the reporters, changed his original plan of opening his case with Mrs. Aloha Wanderswell, widow of the murderer, as his first witness.

Mrs. Wanderswell, he explained, was unable to reach court immediately. The state argued vigorously against placing the reporters on the witness stand, claiming they had not been excluded from the court room as had other witnesses, but on showing their livelihood depended on their presence there, the defence overcame the objection.

THREE HEARD
Three reporters, Agnes Underwood, Vincent Mahoue and Marian Reed, testified they had heard the state's principal witness, Cuthbert Wills, enquire of the "Garmis" remark three days after the slaying that "he could not be sure" that Guy was the mysterious visitor to the Carmichael.

Wills had testified for the state that on the night of the murder he saw three others, sitting in the mess hall of the Carmichael, had seen a face at a port hole and the man inquired for Wanderswell.

The engineer said he went out on deck and took the man to Wanderswell. Ten minutes later he heard a shot and, rushing forward, found Wanderswell dead from a bullet in the back and the man, Guy, he identified himself, maiming McGann, in an opening statement said he would disprove the identification.

That at the time of the murder Guy was in Glendale. He explained he would prove the alleged motive, a disavowal of money, had no application to Guy.

extreme class, it left out entirely the middle class, which comprised 69 per cent of the people of Canada.

The effect of the federation's proposals would be a turning upside down of the economic and social structure of Canada, said Dr. Stanley. "A complete revolution to introduce collective ownership of the wealth-producing facilities of the country," was the avowed purpose of the organization.

NOT LEADER THEN

Several clashes occurred between Dr. Stanley and Mr. Woodworth, the latter denying several statements attributed to him. Dr. Stanley stated that in 1919 Mr. Woodworth was among the leaders of the One Big Union.

"I deny the truth of that statement," shouted Mr. Woodworth. "I was not a leader and not even a member."

Dr. Stanley then charged Mr. Woodworth had been one of the most outstanding defenders of the One Big Union leaders and this passed unchallenged.

MOTHERWELL SPEAKS

"We have had these new parties for a long time," remarked Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Liberal, Melville, Sask., who followed Dr. Stanley. For instance, he said, there was the Drury government in Ontario.

"What marvelous things were expected of him when he was taken from the tail of the plough and put into the parliament of the biggest province of this Dominion. But he and his colleagues of his ministers found themselves in the penitentiary before very long. Is that the new social order we are to follow?"

"In Saskatchewan," he said, "the Farmer-Labor party has done more harm in pulling down co-operation within the last three or four years than the whole gang of them have done in their lifetime in building it up. He spoke of the building up of the wheat pool in that province. I think it was the most magnificent co-operative venture I have known anywhere," he said.

But the foundations were not strong. By the foundation he said he meant the pool method of giving an advance payment, followed by two or three other payments at intervals. At the same time, he said, the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Company had been carrying on.

This latter organization was absorbed by the new pool overnight—quite constitutionally, but terribly ruthlessly. Now the pool had met with "terrible disaster." This indicated how much the Farmer-Labor party of Saskatchewan desired co-operation on commercial lines.

NAME OF PARTY
The former Minister of Agriculture criticized the name of the new party. Why should this new body have a monopoly of such comprehensive words as "Commonwealth"? Members of other parties felt they had the common wealth of the people at heart.

The proposals of the federation were "entirely nebulous," Mr. Motherwell said. "It is like buying a pig in a poke," he declared. "Only worse. We would be buying a pig without seeing the poke or the pig."

The Saskatchewan Farmer-Labor Federation, in its platform, which supported the C.C.F., had advocated development of Churchill as a port of entry.

"When I was sitting in the government and proposed development of Churchill instead of Nelson, these same lads opposed me," he declared.

Dr. J. L. Duguid, Conservative, Lake St. John, Que., said he was opposed to the resolution. The farmers of the province of Quebec did not want communism.

province of Quebec did not want communism.

FREIGHT RATES

E. J. Young, Liberal, Weyburn, Sask., drew attention to the fact that A. E. Mosher, president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railwaymen, before the Duff commission had urged an increase in freight rates in order to meet railway wages.

Mr. Mosher was also a member of the C.C.F. executive, the speaker said. Did the members of the C.C.F. in the Commons approve Mr. Mosher's representations? If so, how did they reconcile them with the demand of E. J. Garland, C.C.F., Bow River, last session for reduction of freight rates?

As to the C.C.F. policy of "production for use" and not for profit, Mr. Young said the Canadian farmers had been producing solely for use for some years past and they were getting tired of it. They wanted a little profit on their operations now.

Mr. Young took several flings at the technocrats who, measuring the efficiency of machinery, laid down principles of shorter working days. He asked, combining this with the C.C.F. advocacy of equal rights for women, how the farmer's wife could get through her work in four hours a day. To compel this condition would necessitate ever farmer having three wives.

George E. Nicholson, Conservative, Algoma East, Ont., said the leader of the movement, (Mr. Woodworth) had delivered speeches in northern Ontario last summer, and was "deluding" the people of this country in regard to his proposals.

CHALLENGE TO DEMOCRACY

If there was a challenge to Democracy to-day, said Humphrey Mitchell, Labor, East Hamilton, it came not from the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, but from the Conservative Party. He referred to a recent speech of J. Earl Laverne, Conservative, West York, Ont., and declared the attitude of the Conservative in York County constituted a challenge to democracy.

Members of the House of Commons had been forbidden to speak in the city of Toronto.

A. U. G. Bury, (Conservative, Edmonton East) entered the debate with prompt challenge to the C.C.F. to indicate how it would help Canada. If the present system had broken down, he continued, there was nothing in the C.C.F. plan to look to for a substitute.

The Conservative member took issue with the statement of William Irvine, U.F.A., Wetaskiwin, in earlier debate that "it was the present system which was on trial and not the Canadian Co-operative Federation."

What the C.C.F. was attempting to do was to substitute a new system for the existing one, Mr. Bury stated, therefore, show what they had to offer.

"But they have not," Mr. Bury proceeded.

Mr. Bury said it was impossible the proposed C.C.F. plan could extricate the people of this country from their present conditions. Nor could it help the world.

CENTURIES OLD
"You are proposing," Mr. Bury stated in addressing the members in the C.C.F. corner of the chamber, "to scrap a system which has been built up over centuries and centuries, not through the motive of greed, as suggested, if there were defects in the present system, caused by abnormal times, these weaknesses could be corrected."

C. E. McIntosh, Liberal, North Battleford, Sask., did not believe the economic and industrial order of Canada had collapsed. To urge that bordered on anathema.

The debate was not concluded yesterday evening and was sent over, the House to-day being scheduled to leave the field of private members' resolutions and take up government business.

COMMISSIONER HEARS JOBLESS

Burnaby, B.C., Feb. 10.—A crowd of unemployed forced their way into the municipal hall here yesterday, seeking an interview with Provincial Commissioner John Bennett, who had been in charge of the municipality's affairs since Burnaby defaulted on bond payments.

Six policemen were posted at the door when a crowd of 300 jobless assembled. They were refused admission, but the commissioner agreed to hear a small delegation. The women were admitted and when the door was ajar after the interview had been finished, the remainder rushed in and about fifty entered.

The door was locked and police refused to release those inside until the crowd dispersed.

Commissioner Bennett told the delegation he had arranged with several stores to accept relief scrip at face value and said he was determined to stamp out exploitation of unemployed by trades people who discriminated the scrip.

The women replied they were not satisfied with the amount of relief received and declared several "women and children starving."

The commissioner said the amount allowed for relief was beyond his control, and the delegation retired.

NEEDY FAMILIES SENT TO FARMS

Canadian Press
Calgary, Feb. 10.—Families who come to cities when they become destitute in country areas will be placed on farms whenever possible by the Alberta Government. A number of families have entered Alberta, still seeking unemployment relief, but found they were not entitled to aid because they had not resided in the cities for one year.

According to a statement by A. A. McKenzie, chairman of the Alberta relief commission, these families will be placed on vacant farms, the rent to be paid by the commission. "On a monthly basis of the extent of the annual taxes due."

While on the farms the families will receive relief, but will be expected to grow a certain amount of food-stuffs in the summer, and the heads of the families will be expected to work whenever possible in aiding neighbors with farm operations.

COMMONS IS TO DEBATE BARTER

Ottawa, Feb. 10.—Early opportunity will be afforded the Commons to discuss the Russian barter plan. Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, so informed the House yesterday afternoon. He thought an opportunity occasion would be during consideration of the agricultural livestock estimates, which would shortly be ready for presentation to the House.

WORLD MUST STOP ECONOMIC WARFARE

The eyes of the world are being directed to the World Economic and Monetary Conference which it is hoped will be held during the summer. For some time a body known as the Preparatory Commission of Experts under the presidency of a statesman of Holland has been working on a programme for the conference and recently transmitted to the council for the gathering at Geneva a draft report. This report is an interesting and valuable document. According to the special correspondent of The Manchester Guardian at Geneva, one of the most important passages perhaps is that which points out that in essence the necessary programme is one of economic disarmament since the world is engaged in economic warfare. In the movement towards economic reconciliation the armistice was signed at Lausanne. The conference must now draw up a treaty of peace. Failure in this critical undertaking threatens a world-wide adoption of ideals of national self-sufficiency which cut unmistakably athwart the lines of economic development. Failure would shake the whole system of international finance to its foundations, the committee declares. Standards of living would be lowered and the social system as we know it could hardly survive.

The Commission explains that its programme of reconstruction does not include the problem of inter-governmental indebtedness, because this problem lies outside its terms of reference. In its opinion, however, it is essential that this question shall be settled. It adds:

"Until there is such a settlement, or the definite prospects of such a settlement, these debts will remain an insuperable barrier to economic and financial reconstruction. We therefore attach the greatest importance to an early resumption and successful conclusion of negotiations upon this problem."

In regard to gold the Commission says that in the field of monetary and credit policy the objective must be the restoration of an effective international standard to which the countries which have abandoned the gold standard can adhere. Each government must remain free to decide when and under what conditions it could apply such a standard, after most careful preparations and every safeguard against such a restoration of the gold standard leading to a fresh break-down in this respect. The Commission considers it would be useful to see whether measures can be taken with the co-operation of the central banks on the lines of the recommendations in the report of the gold delegation of the League to ensure a greater stability of price levels.

In regard to commodity prices, the commission is of opinion that such increase in the level of world prices would be the first sign of economic recovery, and it examines what methods can be used to counteract the fall in prices. It suggests that one of the methods that should be envisaged is a general policy of easy money to promote a healthy extension of business. It also suggests that a better level of prices might be obtained by the regulation of exports or production. Such an arrangement could be of special importance in the case of wheat.

The abolition of measures of exchange control is, in the Commission's opinion, an essential condition of world recovery, but such an abolition is only possible if there is a lasting balance in the budgetary system, and to secure such stability the governments concerned must make an effort to adapt their budgetary and economic systems. In some cases these efforts will not be sufficient so long as there is a mass of short-term foreign debts, which may at any moment be withdrawn. The Commission also notes that the service of long-term foreign debts might entail great difficulties which must be examined with much care.

The Commission further considers that there must be greater freedom of international trade. It considers that every effort should be made to secure agreement for the relaxation and complete abrogation at the earliest possible date of the emergency measures—prohibitions, quotas—imposed on trade as a result of the crisis.

The Commission concludes this part of its report with the statement that any action in the direction of the return of freedom to trade has an intimate bearing upon the stabilization of currencies, as it is impossible to maintain an international monetary system except on the basis of an international economic system. "The great creditor nations have a special responsibility in this matter," it concludes.

We live in a world which is constantly getting smaller—too small for narrow nationalism in trade and commerce. Until this fact is realized by the various nations and long steps taken in the direction of economic internationalism there will be no recovery anywhere.

IT WAS A NOBLE EXAMPLE A FEW YEARS AGO

Now that the United States has become a great creditor country a change of tariff policy is an absolute necessity and that that is true, war debts or no war debts, should by this time be obvious to the most ordinary intelligence, says the morning paper.

No person of ordinary intelligence will contest the force of this argument. But the United States was a great creditor country before the Republican administration boosted its tariff with the Fordney-McCumber programme, later by the Smoot-Hawley measure, and more recently by specific discriminatory schedules.

In the general federal election of 1925 and 1930, we recall that it would have been difficult to have found a more enthusiastic supporter of the United States tariff policy than Canadian Conservative papers. The Montreal Star and The Montreal Gazette, for example, said in 1925 that the King government's lower tariff policy was simply heading Canada to bankruptcy, that the only way to avoid such a catastrophe would be for this country to emulate its neighbor on the south. In 1930, higher tariffs were prescribed as the cure for unemployment.

Although the tariff is not a provincial matter at all, it will be remembered how the Conservative press in the campaign of 1928 constantly pointed to the United States as the country representing the paragon of all the tariff virtues. Were Canada to follow her example, Conservative speakers declared, all the boys would be brought back home and there would be jobs for everybody. All this time the United States was a great creditor nation.

The fact remains, of course, that the United States, seemed to imagine that the unprecedented prosperity which they enjoyed a few years ago was the beginning of a new era in which good times would be pegged permanently. The idea was conceived that it would be possible to do a one-way trade and not suffer. The disaster which has followed the attempt to get away with it is painfully apparent. Canada followed suit as soon as Mr. Bennett assumed office. Our own condition needs no special emphasis.

After the new administration in the United States gets into harness it may be assumed that the government at Washington will change the country's tariff policy. With this international co-operation will be required to restore normal trading between the nations. Natural economic laws have been flouted; but they exact their grim penalties.

FINDS IT DIFFICULT TO PICK A WINNER

Lord Beaverbrook and his various political crusades have sustained so many rebuffs that it is hardly likely the scant consideration with which the electors of East Fife treated his special candidate will have very much effect upon the skin of the Canadian-born newspaper magnate. The two Liberal candidates polled a little more than 18,000 votes between them, while the Labor candidate ran second with 6,635, with the Beaverbrook standard-bearer 4,404.

As soon as the vacancy in this constituency occurred, Lord Beaverbrook organized a group calling itself the Independent Conservative and Agricultural party, and then successfully promoted the idea that it enter a candidate as a protest against the National Government's policies. The newspaper baron took the platform himself and delivered some ringing speeches roundly berating the administration, whose policy, he declared, was a betrayal of the agricultural industry of the country. In his opinion the farmers have been victimized by the new tariff scheme, which had protected industry but not agriculture. He demanded higher duties against all foreign foodstuffs, and called upon the farmers to rally to his banner.

No matter how opinions in Great Britain may differ on the merit of the government's fiscal policy, the moment a candidate in an election goes into battle and asks for higher tariffs, or even tariffs at all, against foreign foodstuffs, he practically places himself outside the pale at the outset. It is true that industry in Britain, just as in Canada and in the United States, gets a great deal more consideration from governments than does agriculture. But cheap food is the prime essential in Britain by reason of lower wage scales. Lord Beaverbrook will have to try another course.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

MUNICIPAL TAX CONSCIOUSNESS
The New York Evening Post

Although English cities have no doubt limitations such as American cities have, there has not been a single default on municipal bonds in all England. There is tax consciousness of the right kind!

IN OTTAWA, TOO

Vigorous police prosecution should be visited upon those stupid and dangerous motor vehicle drivers who fail to draw to the curb at the sound of the fire siren. The other morning the fire wags came down eastward on Pender and some of them narrowly avoided collision with automobiles and trucks that continued to pour nonchalantly out of Beatty Street with utter disregard for the fire signal.

This is criminal and idiotic folly. It endangers the life of the foolish driver himself. It endangers the lives of the firemen. And it jeopardizes the safety of the lives and property which the firemen are rushing to save. Such cases merit the strictest conviction and punishment.

CANADIAN TOBACCO EXPORTS
Canada Week by Week

Tobacco grown in Canada is becoming more popular among smokers in the British Isles, who are notable for their discriminating taste in the weed. Exports of Canadian tobacco from January 1 to October 31, 1932, totaled 9,086,360 pounds to the British Isles, a considerable increase over the total amount shipped to the British market in 1931 and more than three times as much as sold there in 1930. Canadian bright flue-cured tobacco is the principal variety demanded by buyers in the British Isles. This is grown in southwestern Ontario.

As a result of trade agreements between Canada and Britain, which were drafted at the Imperial Economic Conference held in Ottawa last summer, it is expected that more Canadian tobacco will find a market in the Old Country.

Tobacco production has greatly increased in Canada in recent years. In 1931, the total production was 51,300,000 pounds from 55,000 acres. In 1932 the total production was only 13,249,000 pounds from 11,809 acres. Figures for the 1933 production are not yet available, but a preliminary survey indicates it will be about the same as in 1931.

Loose Ends

A record of importance is discovered—a long time hence—showing what happened to Victoria—when it adopted Technocracy—its efficiency—and solved all its problems.

By H. R. W.

IMPORTANT RECORD

In "Hinchliffe's History of Civilization," written some years after the end of the first Union Government of British Columbia, and on the eve of the final Depression of 1933, I find the following important chapter: "In the year 1933, Victoria, B.C., the head village of a curious tribe on the west coast of America, adopted Technocracy and a Perfectly Ordered System of Society. The results were important."

In the first place (says Hinchliffe's monumental work) the wise government of Victoria fixed the population of their village at 100,000 people, the number which a survey of energy had shown to be just right for local conditions. To replace the parents and keep the population static, each family was compelled to have precisely two children, no more, no less, and if twins occurred, the Committee of Adjustment immediately reduced the quota of some other family to balance this increase. In the epidemic of twins which occurred in the fall of 1933, the Committee of Adjustment found it necessary to put many families on the waiting list for prolonged periods, until equilibrium could be established. After that twins were specifically forbidden by law.

The equal distribution of property was the next step. With the houses available, each family was allowed three-quarters of a house. This caused some inconvenience at first to families who found their allotments distributed over three houses, but this difficulty was quickly overcome by the energetic governors of Victoria through a reduction of the number of houses so that each family received a complete half and in one house.

FOLLOWING THE BIRDS

In the same way food was distributed equally and each citizen received identically the same meal as his neighbor three times a day. Those who were unable to eat all the food were not allowed to hoard it, but a surplus was created and the equilibrium of business was destroyed; but as a special concession to inefficiency and the Old Order, the authorities permitted unwanted food to be fed to the seagulls. This unfortunately brought so many seagulls that far more tourists than the city could support began to follow the birds to Victoria, and threatened to increase the population beyond the point which the Energy Survey had shown to be safe. In the end, the College of Technocrats devised the plan of breeding a new race of synthetic seagulls which would fly away from Victoria and lead the tourists elsewhere.

Leisure and amusement, of course, was rationed on thoroughly rational lines, and equally divided among all. Thus every man was allowed precisely fifteen and a half holes of golf a week and he could finish the round on the week following. This proved annoying to confirmed golfers of the old school, whose intellects were not equal to the frictions involved in keeping a score, and many of them stopped playing altogether. But the College of Technocrats met this challenge by enacting heavy penalties for those who didn't play their fifteen and a half holes a week; for in a Perfectly Ordered State it was intolerable that the existing golf course should not be used to their maximum possibility, since nothing must be wasted.

AMUSEMENT

By the same reckoning a man might catch fifteen fish in a year. He was entitled to an invitation to Government House once every five years (two drinks and three sandwiches per visit). He could get drunk once in the summer and once at New

Years or attend a lecture on the Higher Aspects of Technocracy, if he preferred it. (Generally he didn't.) He could pick two roses from the Parliament Buildings grounds or listen to the Legislature for two hours and pick one rose, as he wished. The preference for picking of roses, however, threatened to upset the equilibrium here and it was necessary to compel everyone to pick only one rose and listen to the Legislature for one hour.

THE LEGISLATURE was rather boring by this time since in a Perfectly Ordered State there was really nothing for it to do. It spent three sessions on an inquiry to see how often, with the energy available, the Pacific Great Eastern Railway might be reported as being sold every year. Through the general improvement of conditions, it was found possible to report it sold many more frequently than in the barbarous days of disorder when it was sold indiscriminately only two or three times a year. The chief issue dividing the political parties was whether it should be reported sold at regular intervals, synchronizing with the change of the seasons, or just now and then, to give the people a surprise. Three bitter elections were fought on this issue until finally, in a fit of absent-mindedness, a misguided government actually sold the railway and there was nothing left to rally parties about. So a union government was formed and the Legislature closed indefinitely.

REFORM

ANOTHER GREAT reform was a standard dress. This was not achieved without a good deal of violence and distress. One large group of citizens insisted on adopting generally the ordinary speech of Canada, but a determined minority fought bitterly to retain that cultured mixture of Oxford, Esquimaux and Rockland Avenue, which had been considered by the old inhabitants as true English since the early days of settlement, but which English people found difficult to understand.

In the interests of efficiency and economy, a standard form of dress also was required. It took many years to effect peace between the faction which wanted the standard dress to look like Government Street and another group which insisted that it resemble Piccadilly or Scotland during the grouse humping season. Most of the latter were native-born Victorians, who had never been east of Ten-Mile Point. Several hard elections were fought over this problem and in the end the union government, at the polls, effected a compromise. From the waist up the men of Victoria were Canadian in ordinary suits, white collars and derby hats. From the waist down they were English in rough tweed plus fours, woolen stockings and brogues. This assured the overwhelming victory of the Union Government at the polls, though the Minister of Agriculture resigned in protest when spats were made optional.

LAST MAN

THEN SUDDENLY a strange thing happened. The College of Technocrats (Bureau of Birth Regulation) announced that the population was declining below the 100,000 mark. In vain the governors raised the birth rate to three per family and then to ten. They finally insisted on all families having half a dozen, and removed the embargo on twins. Still the population declined. People began to follow the birds to Vancouver, where the barbarous natives of the Mainland lived in an appalling state of inefficiency and chaos, never having heard of Technocracy.

EVEN WHEN the birds were ordered not to fly to Vancouver and a new race of birds was bred to fly in the opposite direction, the drain on the population continued. For some reason which the College of Technocrats could not fathom, the people seemed to like Vancouver even though it was sunk in abysmal inefficiency and chaos. The College could find nothing to explain it in all its books on the Workings of the Human Machine, and was very distressed in its mind. Still the population declined (says Hinchliffe's monumental History of Civilization) until there was no one left in Victoria, B.C., but one old man who had missed the last boat and

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES FEBRUARY 10, 1908

(From The Times Files)

Committees representing the municipalities of South Saanich and Oak Bay recently met to discuss the question of having a separate water supply, independent of the city of Victoria, but their efforts to come to a satisfactory understanding proved abortive.

The whole of the circle of wireless stations on this Coast are now in working order. Cape Lazo is the last to report ready for service. Captain Gaudin, agent of Marine and Fisheries, has received a message by way of Point Grey to the effect that Cape Lazo station is now in communication.

Within the next few days the work of clearing the right of way out of New Alarming toward Nanaimo will be commenced, the contract for the first line and a half mile having been let to J. Carmichael of Vancouver by the C.P.R.

The steamer Princess Beatrice has returned to port after having been under special charter to A. J. Earling, president of the Chicago Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway, and a party of capitalists from Chicago and other points.

There was some very pretty rugby at Oak Bay on Saturday, when the home team defeated Nanaimo Hornets by a score of 31 to 10. But as the score would indicate, there was not much of a contest. Victoria had the game in their hands all through, but their kicking was wretched, the ball not going near the goal on either of the seven occasions.

JACK WRIGHT DENIES RUMOR

Canada's Leading Tennis Player Announces He Will Play in Davis Cup Series

Vancouver, Feb. 10.—Rumors emanating from Montreal that Dr. Jack Wright, Canada's No. 1 man for several years on the Davis Cup tennis team, had undergone an operation for appendicitis and would be a doubtful starter in the match against Cuba, were denied by Wright, who is on the staff of the Vancouver General Hospital.

He stated yesterday there wasn't the slightest truth in the story and that he was going ahead with preparations to represent Canada in the first round tie. Wright said that he had been training regularly for several months, taking physical exercises five days a week while he had been playing squash all winter. Furthermore, he will start indoors tennis this week. He claims he is in first-class condition and hopes to make a good showing against the Cubans.

It was reported recently that Canada's team would probably be Wright, Rainville, Martin and Nunn, the team named last year.

Wolgast Hangs Up Knockout Victory

Philadelphia, Feb. 10.—Midget Wolgast, flyweight titleholder, outpunched and outsped Billy Passanento, Philadelphia left-hander, to win on a technical knockout in the seventh round of an eight-round bout here yesterday evening.

Wolgast opened a cut on his opponent's face in the fifth and kept it bleeding until Referee Herman Iuden stopped the bout. Wolgast scaled at 117½, Passanento, 114½.

Selkirk Leads In Winnipeg Hockey

Winnipeg, Feb. 10.—Selkirk's fishermen yesterday evening took the lead by one point over Winnipeg in the Manitoba senior hockey division when they defeated Brandon Wheat Kings, 3 to 1.

Moonson, Archer and Creighton scored for the winners in the first period. Brandon's lone tally came from the stick of Joe McIntosh in the third period.

SIDE GLANCES

By George Clark

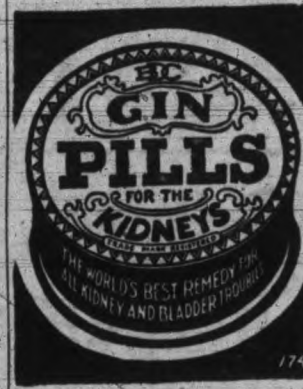

"I got lots more. These are just the things they gave me to stop sucking my thumb."

END OF THE RUN

Charles Smith always said that stretch of beach at Beverly Curve, with the setting sun visible through a small grove, was "the most beautiful spot in the world." Every time he took No. 8152 over it he admired it, and he knew he was near the end of his run and the day's work. Engineer Smith's will directed that his ashes be scattered there, along the Pennsylvania's busy right of way just east of Chicago. Engine 8152, that Smith had piloted in his last of forty-three years' service, made a special run. Its whistle sounded the requiem as 8152 swung around Beverly Curve. Engineer Herman Seibold leaned from Smith's old place in the cab, carried out his friend's last orders.

TELLS VALUE OF INSURANCE

Ready Cash From Policies of Great Aid in Administrative Estates

E. B. Westby, Trust Company Head, Explains Procedure to Local Underwriters

Trust companies in general were convinced of the value of life insurance since it furnished ready cash for the administration of estates when the head of a family died and the dependents were left with assets of unimpaired value that required a considerable time to convert into funds without considerable loss. E. B. Westby, western manager of the London and Western Trust Company, told members of the Victoria and Island Life Underwriters' Association at their luncheon in Spencer's dining-room yesterday.

During the depression many estates had been ruined through the lack of cash, Mr. Westby said. Many had assets of undoubted merit, greatly reduced through the shortage of funds on hand to meet administration expenses. As a result the trust companies had a deep appreciation of the work of life insurance men for their safeguarding ready funds in the case of death.

The necessity for cash was recognized, and no institution made provision for this as did life insurance. Of scarcely less importance than that of providing cash was that of drawing up workable wills kept up-to-date, the speaker said.

Mr. Westby, to illustrate the best methods in which wills could be drawn up, sketched a hypothetical will, showing how various assets were entered in the form of an inventory in the case of a man making his will in 1929 and dying in 1932. By blackboard diagrams he listed the various articles of the document.

VALUATIONS DECLINE

Having determined the net value of the estate, Mr. Westby outlined the bequests of the hypothetical deceased. In the case in point, the speaker noted the will had been drawn up in 1929, when the value of the estate was much higher than it was at the time of his death in 1932.

There was no chance on the part of an executor to hide any of the assets, he continued, reading the clauses which governed the levying of succession duties.

Penalties attached to efforts to bury assets were too heavy to make that policy advisable.

Levies were made on the inventories with religious, charitable and educational bequests being distributed in the province, gaining exemption, he noted.

The speaker outlined the manner in which taxes were levied on the various sections of the bequests.

READY CASH NEEDED

To meet debts and succession duties as well as bequests and administration expenses an amount of cash was required. Life insurance provided some funds. Mortgages and securities depending on a fluctuating market were hard to convert into ready cash without loss. Some of them were illiquid rather than assets, he continued.

As a result, much of the net estate left to the dependents of a man whose estate was not in an accessible condition were questionable.

In his opinion, Mr. Westby said, it was the duty of life insurance agents to have their clients revise their wills which were more often than not based upon valuations not applicable in the time of depreciation.

If insurance men would give this advice to men, they would be adding to the protection of dependents.

For that reason, trust companies all over believed in the value of insurance, he concluded.

The speaker was introduced by J. Barracough.

Jurors for the Victoria spring assizes are to be chosen here on February 27 by three official juror selectors under Sheriff Goggin, acting under instructions from Deputy Attorney-General Oscar Bass, K.C., it was announced today. The Victoria spring assizes will open on March 13.

ASK TEACHERS FOR REDUCTION

Squamish School Board Follows Council's Request By Seeking Further Wage Cut

In compliance with the request of the Squamish Municipal Council, the Squamish School Board yesterday evening decided to ask teachers in the district's schools to take a further 7 per cent reduction in their salaries, as from January 1. Cuts of 15 per cent were also decided upon for the wages of the head janitor at Lampson Street School and in the sum paid the school health officer.

The assistant janitor at Lampson Street will be given a 5 per cent reduction.

The board's request will go forward to the teachers by way of letters. Providing the school staffs do not accept a suggestion, the board will hold a meeting with them on Monday afternoon and will continue their deliberations at a special session on Monday evening.

At the meeting yesterday evening the board expressed regret at having to follow this course, but pointed out the fact that government grants for education had fallen and it was necessary to reduce expenditures. Various other economies will be effected this year to decrease the financial outlay of the school department.

Providing the teachers accept the 7 per cent cut, they will have brought their salary reductions to a gross 15 per cent. Last year they went under the pruning knife to the extent of 8 per cent.

Sooke

The monthly meeting of the Sooke and North Sooke Women's Institute was held in Bremers tearoom Tuesday evening with Mrs. G. W. Jones presiding. Final arrangements were made for the Valentine dance to be held in Sooke Hall Saturday evening. It was decided to hold an old-time dance in Sooke Hall Saturday, February 25. Mrs. E. Gray and Mrs. G. Jones being appointed conveners. If this dance proves a success it was decided to continue with one dance a month. A motion to change the time of the meetings from evening to afternoon was passed. The meeting adjourned and the tea was served by Mrs. Kirby and Mrs. Gray.

A meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of Holy Trinity Church to the M.S.C.C. was held at the home of Mrs. A. Cline Wednesday afternoon.

Arrangements were made for a concert to be held in Sooke Hall March 18. Mrs. A. Edwards and Mrs. J. P. Noury were appointed delegates to the annual meeting of the Diocesan Board to be held at Memorial Hall from March 8 to March 11. Mrs. H. M. Bolton gave an interesting reading on

CEMETERY HAS CASH BALANCE

An operating profit of $1,141.49 after taking care of interest and sinking fund instalments was shown in the financial statement of the Board of Cemetery Trustees for Greater Victoria at the annual meeting Wednesday night.

Total revenue is given as $17,794 against expenditures of $16,652.51. The main revenue is from the sale of plots.

The statement shows $5,978.77 in cash and bank balances at the end of the year as compared with $4,410.19 at January 1 last year.

The balance sheet sets out assets worth $94,903.22, the main item being the cemetery site and construction worth $67,760.35. Against this are $90,900 debentures, less $21,300.07 in sinking funds. The cemetery has a maintenance reserve fund of $10,706.84.

Partners in the east are reported having a tough time, but there are fewer line-fence shootings. No one seems to care if 3-cent hogs run all over a field of 35-cent corn.

METROPOLITAN CELEBRATING

Church Will Commemorate its Seventy-fourth Anniversary on Sunday

Rev. Dr. Brewster Speaks at Both Services; Congregation Supper Monday

The Metropolitan United Church will celebrate on Sunday next the seventy-fourth anniversary of the dedication of the first Methodist church in Victoria, known as Pandora Avenue Church, which was opened for worship in May, 1860, by Rev. Ephraim Evans, D.D., assisted by Rev. B. Robinson and Rev. W. Clark of the Congregational Church.

The foundation stone of the church was laid by Governor James Douglas in 1850. The sending of ministers to the Pacific Coast, was the first foreign missionary work undertaken by the Wesleyan Methodist Church of Canada, and the report made in the autumn of 1850 to undertake the work was due in part to the foresight of the general missionary secretary, Rev. Enoch Wood, and to the appeal sent to him from Victoria by L. T. Piddell.

The four men chosen to make the journey from eastern Canada were: Rev. Ephraim Evans, Rev. Edward White, Rev. Ebenezer Robinson and Rev. Arthur Browning. They arrived in Victoria, Thursday, February 10, 1850, after a long trip from the east, by way of New York, Panama, San Francisco and Portland.

On Monday evening a banquet will be held at 6:15 o'clock, at which all old-timers are expected to be present. Special tables having been provided for them. The guest speaker will be Dr. Brewster. Others taking part will make the banquet of unique interest.

Dog Shows Aid Sunshine Inn

Victoria Kennel Club's Parlor Show Nets $146.50 and Theo Mollinson, Who Staged a Private Dog Show, Handed $3.02 Over as His Contribution.

Two dog shows, one a private affair conducted by Master Theo Mollinson, 1073 Deal Street, Oak Bay, and the other a parlor and children's novelty show held by the Victoria Kennel Club, gave the funds of Sunshine Inn a boost by nearly $150.

Young Theo made $3.02 from his show.

The Victoria Kennel Club turned over $146.50 as proceeds from its event, which was held at Plimley's garage last month.

The kennel club's show was the largest ever held in Victoria and attracted a great attendance. The club, in sending the cheque to Sunshine Inn, said: "The club is delighted that the show proved such a success and that it was able to turn in a worthwhile contribution to your most worthy enterprise."

Young Theo was so taken with the parlor dog show that he decided to hold a private one himself. He had admission cards typed, fifteen cents for adults and ten cents for children. Many dogs were entered and there was a fair attendance. Theo's first contribution to Capt. Burgess Gossden, manager of Sunshine Inn, was $25.77, but a few days ago he walked in with another forty-five cents and a big smile on his face.

Capt. Gossden stated this morning that the results of these two shows were extremely gratifying and the directors of the Inn wished to convey their heartfelt thanks to the Victoria Kennel Club and Theo Mollinson, who was assisted by Master Hammond.

No returns have yet been made by several other organizations which announced their performances were for the benefit of Sunshine Inn. In future the Inn will not allow its name to be used in connection with charity affairs unless the sanction of the directors has been given.

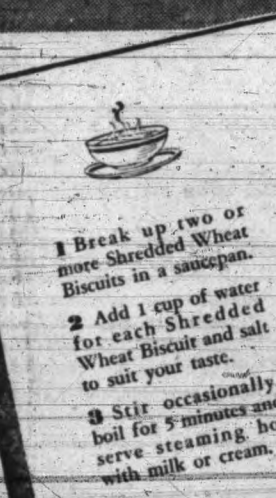

Chemainus

Chemainus, Feb. 10.—The annual meeting of the Porter Chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, was held Tuesday in the Baptist Church. The welfare secretary was given a special vote of thanks for the splendid work she had accomplished during the depression. Various appeals were read, one coming under the Educational Department and another from the Columbia Coast Mission. All officers were re-elected.

In the future all meetings will be held at the homes of members. The next will be at the home of Mrs. Russell Robinson. Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Wynne were tea hostesses.

A get-together meeting of the ladies of the community was held Tuesday evening at the Recreation Hall, about seventy being present. The following were hostesses: Mrs. Frank Reed, Mrs. W. E. Evans, Mrs. Lewis McLaughlin, Mrs. H. Heslop, Mrs. Frank Elliott, Mrs. John Humbird and Mrs. J. C. Adam. Prize winners in competitions were: Mrs. J. Taylor, Mrs. B. Finlayson, Mrs. Allan Porter and Mrs. David Reed. Miss Payne rendered vocal solos, Mrs. Campbell playing the accompaniment. Refreshments were served, followed by dancing.

Strength Failed

Hamilton, Ont.—"When one of my babies was four months old my strength failed. I was not able to eat anything, had dizzy sick-headaches, developed quinsy sore throat and felt miserable all over—I was confined to bed," said Mrs. J. Dunsmuir of 294 Beach Road. "I started using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and after a few doses there was a big improvement in my condition and when I had completed the third bottle I certainly felt fine and strong again."

ALLIANCE NAMES BISHOP LEADER

B.C. Lord's Day Branch
Elects Rt. Rev. C. D. Schofield President

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Feb. 10.—Rt. Rev. C. D. Schofield, Bishop of Columbia, was elected president of the Lord's Day Alliance, British Columbia branch, at the annual meeting of that body here yesterday evening. He succeeds Rt. Rev. A. J. Doull, Bishop of Kootenay.

A resolution of appreciation of the services rendered to the alliance by Bishop Doull for the last eleven years, of which he was president, was passed. Regret was expressed that British Columbia would lose the services of Bishop Doull, who is to leave shortly for England.

The following vice-presidents were elected: R. G. Howell, Victoria; Dr. L. S. Kline, Vancouver; W. A. Wylie, Kamloops; Rt. Rev. Walter Adams, Bishop of Cariboo, and the presiding officers of the provincial courts of the co-operating churches. Rev. A. H. Huntley was chosen recording secretary.

Confidence was expressed in the work of Rev. G. G. Weber, field secretary, and he was heartily thanked for his report, which gave a comprehensive review of the work.

Rev. G. O. Fallis, president of the British Columbia Conference of the United Church, presided.

FARMERS REFUSE ADVICE, SUFFER

Owners of Cattle in Peace
River Block Refuse to Slaughter Animals

Now Faced With Shortage of Feed; Government Assistance Sought

Shortage of cattle feed in the Peace River block was reported to the Department of Agriculture several days ago and the matter immediately taken up with the federal authority. It was stated at the Parliament Buildings yesterday.

The Ottawa government has an agreement with Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba whereby federal and provincial governments unite in transporting feed at specially reduced rates to the points designated. The railway companies co-operate in this arrangement. The agreement, however, does not apply to the Peace River block, although the Peace is as much prairie as any part of the three provinces enjoying the concession.

Agricultural officials declare there is an abundance of feed in other parts of the province, which can readily be sent to the cattle requiring help. They state that owing to the low price of cattle, many farmers refrained from slaughtering their herds this winter, thus causing a feed shortage. These farmers were warned that such a course might prove disastrous to them, but refused to take heed of the advice.

From other sources, it was learned that the Department of Agriculture is deeply interested in a financial way in the many herds of cattle throughout the Peace. In 1926 several carloads were sent there and sold to farmers on easy terms. Less than 10 per cent of the price has been paid the government. In 1930 more carloads of cattle were sent in with, but little more success from the government's point of view. The department heads, it is thought, have virtually written off the balances owed by Peace farmers for these throughbred cattle.

If the Dominion government gives the same concessions to the Peace River block as it has in the three prairie provinces, immediate action will be taken to relieve the northern settlers from the present feed famine. Word is expected from the east by tomorrow, officials state.

COME LONG WAY TO PLAY GOLF

Ward A. Dyke of Fort William Here for Winter
Tournament

Ward A. Dyke and W. Closs, well-known business men of Fort William, Ont., are among the eastern visitors at the Empress Hotel to-day. They came west to enjoy some golf and expect to remain here for the winter golf tournament later in the month.

Mr. Closs is chief grain inspector at the Lake Superior port and Mr. Dyke is head of the Fort William real estate firm of Dyke & Sons, Ltd.

With sub-zero temperatures and snow-covered courses in Eastern Canada golf is temporarily eclipsed and those who want to play are forced to travel long distances.

A holiday was coming to Messrs. Dyke and Closs and they chose Victoria as the best bet. They were rather surprised by the cold weather here, but somewhat relieved when they found that the courses were playable.

"It might be worse," said Mr. Dyke this morning in discussing general conditions in the East. "It looks as if we are over the hump all right. The people are more optimistic now."

BANK CLEARINGS DOWN $188,456

According to figures announced by the Victoria Clearing House, bank clearings for the week ending yesterday were $188,456 below those of the corresponding week last year.

Last week's total was $1,230,417, against $1,427,873 for the similar period in 1932.

TAXATION AND VOTES TOPICS

Women's Council Hear Interesting Committee Reports To-day

Suggestion Made That Women Play More Active Role in Politics

Well-reasoned and carefully prepared reports, which evoked most interesting discussion from time to time, were presented by conveners of standing committees at this morning's session of the annual meeting of the Local Council of Women, the subjects including taxation, citizenship as it affects women, the conservation of national parks and resources, and immigration problems.

CITIZENSHIP REPORT

Mrs. W. McManus, reporting as convener of the citizenship committee, noted that the council through its various affiliations has been keeping in mind the needs of the community and the country.

Reference was made to the several campaigns aimed to foster industries, in which the women could play such an important role and which the council had always supported. The organization had shown special interest to this end at the Home Products Fair.

Mrs. McManus reminded the women that by the exercise of their franchise they could take an effective share in meeting the problems of the day, and she spoke with regard to the great numbers who failed to use this privilege yet were ever ready to criticize those who were put into authority through the medium of the ballot box.

Mrs. J. D. Gordon urged the council to consider the question of choosing a woman as a candidate for municipal office. The discussion drew forth a number of interesting comments as to the need for more women along political lines and make their influence felt, both in the provincial and Dominion field.

TAXATION REPORT

In her report on taxation, Mrs. J. L. White observed that the nation or government must live within its income, or credit would decline. British Columbia, for instance, expended $41.97 per capita in 1931, more than double that spent in Ontario.

A letter from the National Council convener of taxation said, in part: "If the Canadian people are indebted to the banks to the extent of $1,350,752,945, then the banks are collecting interest on this amount. Would not lending direct to the municipalities tend to reduce interest?" going on to allege that the Finance Act was "a benefit to the banks."

Reference was made to the results of the Economic Conference as it affects Canada, the various preferential clauses in the agreement being quoted at length.

ADVANTAGES QUESTIONED

"Up to twenty years a man or woman might go through life and never pay one cent directly from his own pocket to any government, but he would nevertheless be paying his share of the tax bill every day of his life," declared Mrs. White, in questioning the advantages enjoyed to-day compared with those of twenty years ago.

"The public has demanded much from governments, which could not be supplied without great expenditure, and the government has been forced to raise taxes. It is hardly fair to criticize and blame governments for the condition we have left ourselves in, for it would be well to call a spade a spade without extensive and expensive public improvements until such time as the public income meets its expenditures, and be content to assist in making a moderate idea of assistance, thereby reducing taxation," she suggested, in conclusion.

ARTS AND LETTERS

Arts and letters were dealt with in the report submitted by Miss Doris Holmes, the convener. She spoke of the work of the B.C. Historical Society, the Authors' Association and recent publications by its members. She also mentioned the work of the Little Theatre group and the forthcoming Dominion drama festival; recalled Miss Emily Carr's efforts to start a people's art gallery here, and also touched upon the work of the Little Theatre group in encouraging art locally.

The musical history of Victoria during the last year was also reviewed by Miss Holmes.

NATIONAL PARKS

National parks received much attention in the report given by Mrs. Hugh McKenzie, convener of national parks section, in which she warned the council to be on the alert as to the danger of exploitation by industrial interests of the beauty spots of Canada. The work being effected in Victoria in the way of improving park and recreation spaces was also reviewed. Preservation of natural features rather than doubtful improvements should be the aim, she suggested.

Mrs. McKenzie also recapitulated the efforts made by Frank Barnum in preserving some of Vancouver Island's fast-disappearing stands of fine old timber. In this connection some discussion arose on the option held by local interests in the Elk Falls and which expires in 1935.

IMMIGRATION PROBLEMS

Mrs. A. C. Ross reported as convener of the committee on migration, quoted from a recent report showing that immigration last year dropped to 25,000, comprising 10 per cent. In 1931 400,000 new citizens came to Canada. The number of immigrants from the United States last year was double the number of those from the British Isles, she said.

Economic conditions and the consequent restrictions imposed on immigration had resulted in the large drop in figures. Returning Canadians numbered only 12,000 in 1932, the report indicated. There was little movement in this regard. Mrs. Ross also spoke in detail of Oriental immigration and the restrictions imposed upon it.

CHAPTER HAS COMING-OF-AGE

Gonzales I.O.D.E. Holds Twenty-first Annual Meeting at "Molton Combe"

Mrs. W. C. Nichol Again Regent; Many Causes Assisted, Reports Show

Gonzales Chapter I.O.D.E. celebrated its twenty-first birthday yesterday afternoon, the gathering being held at the home of Mrs. W. C. Nichol, "Molton Combe," Newport Avenue, where the first meeting of the Chapter was held twenty-one years ago. The various reports presented showed the great progress which has been made by the Chapter since its inception, many worthy causes being espoused.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Mrs. Walter C. Nichol was re-elected regent by acclamation. Other officers chosen were: First vice-regent, Mrs. A. N. Mount; second vice-regent, Mrs. H. J. Davis; secretary, Mrs. Chisholm; treasurer, Miss Marian Pitts; educational secretary, Mrs. P. F. Curtis; convener, Mrs. J. D. Gordon; standard bearer, Mrs. Guy Ford; councillors, Mrs. W. Bell, Mrs. Gillard, Mrs. H. T. Drake, Miss Hall, Mrs. Garfield, Mrs. J. W. Rhodes, and Mrs. N. Norma Macdonald, Mrs. F. G. Dexter and Mrs. Guy Shaw.

In her address Mrs. Nichol noted that the year had been a "splendid" one rather than a "money-making" one, and that the Chapter had been able to pay the wages of the year, enabling the members to have sufficient funds at their disposal to give generously to many organizations and causes, which are of special interest to the Chapter.

MANY CAUSES ASSISTED

A detailed review of the year's activities was read by Mrs. A. H. Chisholm, the convener of the Chapter, who noted that there were fifty-eight members on the roll, and referred to the loss sustained by the Chapter in the passing of Mrs. W. W. Rhodes and Mrs. N. Norma Macdonald, who were both members of the Chapter. The financial statement showed $281.50 had been realized, and the total expenditure had amounted to $266.39. There is a balance in the Chapter's fund of $15.11 in the hospital account.

Financial assistance had been given to the Girl Guides, Boy Scouts, Sea Cadets, Secondary Education, Fleming Ward, the Jubilee Hospital, Soldiers' Travelers' Aid, Soldiers' Orphan, Child Welfare and Christmas Hampers. Libraries had been sent to schools at East Sooke, Esquimalt, B.C., and the Victoria School of Nursing and Midwifery. As a result of last year's book drive, seventy-five books had been donated to the T.B. Ward of the Jubilee Hospital and seventy-five to the Unemployed Recreation Room. In addition cash donations had been given to Chinese Relief, Unemployed Recreation Room, Humanitarian bonds to the Women's Workroom and other causes.

The hospital library committee, Mrs. B. F. Curtis, Mrs. L. Davis and Miss Pitts, had the choice of a parcel containing a hand-made apron as they entered. Valentine decorations and a good programme is being arranged.

MUSICAL ARTS TO-MORROW—Members of the Juvenile Musical Arts Club will meet to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 in the new Theatre Temple. Miss Madge Peterson, vice-president, will conduct the meeting in the unavoidable absence of the president, Geraldine Patterson. A varied programme of piano, violin, cello, recitations and dance numbers has been arranged by Georgina Dowdall, programme convener. Mrs. W. A. Jamieson, guest artist, will sing a group of songs, and Miss Fay Ockenden, also guest artist, from the Intermediate musical arts will play a violin solo.

ST. PAUL'S A.Y.P.A.—The weekly meeting of St. Paul's Anglican Young People's Association was held in the Parish Hall on Wednesday night. A business meeting was held, after which all present took part in a newspaper contest. An account of the recent provincial conference was given by Reginald MacDonald, one of the delegates. It was decided that at the next meeting the boys would entertain the girls. A letter was sent to St. Columba branch inviting them to a debate, which it is proposed to be held on Wednesday, February 22, in the Parish Hall. Members were reminded of the card-party to be held on February 18, the proceeds being for the A.Y.P.A. fund.

SANITARY LIBERAL DANCE—On Friday, February 17, the auditorium of Mount View High School, Gary Road, will be the scene of the annual dance of the Sanitary Liberal Association. Great interest in being taken in this event. The committee in charge has arranged for the attendance of a first-class orchestra. There will be a buffet supper and dancing will be from 9 to 1. Associated Press
New York, Feb. 10.—The story of an eighty-year-old woman who refused, even in death, to be known as a wife and mother was written into Surge Court records to-day.

She was Katherine Wilson, once an actress, whose daughter, Mrs. Channing Pollock, wife of the playwright, will leave the entire estate, estimated at between $5,000 and $10,000 to Mrs. Pollock, but did not acknowledge her as a daughter.

It stated merely that the legacy was for "my friend, Mrs. Channing Pollock."

The executor attached to the will an affidavit by Mrs. Henrietta Fisher of Englewood, N.J., attesting that throughout her life the aged actress had wanted to be known as "the pretty young actress, Kitty Wilson." She never consented to being known as a wife and mother, said the affidavit, though she married Edward Marble and had one daughter.

Miss Wilson, or Mrs. Marble, died January 23 in a downtown hotel, where she had lived for several years.

His records show actual cases including one where the cause of a young man's hay fever was traced to the face powder used by a girl friend.

CHANGE SCHEDULE ONLY WHEN BABY IS READY

It is customary to make some change in schedule at the beginning of the second year. This is not suggested simply because some advice is considered it preferable, but because baby's own growth and development have brought about changes which cannot be ignored.

DIFFERENT NAPTICES

The chief change is usually in the hours for napping. The year-old baby may still be taking a long nap at 10 a.m. but the chances are it is not sleepy at that time but, if put to bed, following which hour there will be a nap for a few months and then it may happen that following the 2 p.m. meal there will be a very long nap which brings baby to the going-to-bed period, after the 5 p.m. feeding, wide awake and tiring to go.

Obviously we can't argue with a year-old baby that it is now 6 p.m. and all self-respecting infants should be in bed and asleep by 8. All we can do is to rearrange his daytime schedule so that the nap divides the day more evenly. In a word, we begin to feed baby at 7 in the morning, at 12 noon, 1 p.m. and 5 p.m. and then there will be a long, satisfying nap, and then a long, wakeful period so that after 6 p.m. baby is willing, nay eager, to go to bed for the night.

READY FOR CHANGE

This change from the four meal to the three meal a day schedule comes at about the time baby is one year old simply because baby is himself ready for the adjustment. I am stressing this because some mothers have made this change and found baby unready for it. They have discovered that baby still wants to take his long nap at 10 o'clock and, when awakened at 12 for a meal, is disinclined to eat, cannot sleep again, and is fretful all afternoon. Being good and conscientious mothers, they are worshipping the rules without making allowance for application to their own particular infants. A schedule is of value only when it fits and works. It is of no value if it so upsets the baby that neither naps nor mealtimes come at suitable hours.

USE OLD ROUTINE

My advice to these mothers is always the same. Go back to the earlier schedule. Feed the baby at 8, 10, 12 and 5 and give him his naps at the hours when he is so evidently ready to sleep. There is time enough to advance the schedule when baby shows by his disposition to sleep at 10 a.m. that he is now ready for a longer wakeful period in the morning, a noon meal, and one nap a day. Schedules fit the average baby, because they have been made with that mythical soul in mind. But when they do not fit, continue the schedule which does, even if your baby is being fed four times a day and your neighbor's baby is being fed only three. Keep general principles in mind all ways. Allow for a suitable interval between meals, allow for regularity, allow for sufficient naptime. They will help the schedule to fit individual measurements.

MISS M. CLAY GAVE ADDRESS

"On account of the present conditions most people are interested in reading economics," stated Miss Margaret Clay, librarian of the Victoria Public Library, in an address she gave yesterday afternoon before the Women's Educational Auxiliary at the Victoria West United Church.

Miss Clay's subject was "What People Are Reading and Why." She said readers were anxious to find out the cause and a way out of the depression. The number of persons reading books on economics in the local library has increased 25 per cent in the last year.

A number of men are taking the opportunity of reading in their leisure moments, the speaker said. Many of them, dissatisfied with the ordinary life, are reading adventure, biographies and travel so as to be ready to take advantage of better times. People read, first, because they are bored; secondly, because they are dissatisfied, but the majority read out of curiosity.

Mrs. J. Travis, the president, was in the chair. A musical programme was given, which included pianoforte solos by Miss Ursula Sills, vocal numbers by Mrs. W. E. H. Godson and violin selection by Mrs. Max Maynard and Mrs. A. S. Lock. At the close of the meeting tea was served. The table was beautifully decorated with daffodils and pussy-willows.

Horoscope

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1933

Astrologers read this as a day of adverse planetary government in which there may be a brooding sense of uncertainty and foreboding.

As the week ends, recreation should be sought and the society of persons who think alike should be sought.

Under this sway the mind may be open to many suggestions that are not inspiring and the wise will cultivate the confidence of prosperity that the sage promotes in the future.

Again oil and oil production appears to be much in the public mind, and there is much promise of wise trade adjustments.

Sharp discussions in legislative halls and serious discussions are prognosticated. Political strife in political parties is indicated. The annular eclipse of the sun this month is read presaging stormy and turbulent times among governmental forces in many countries.

Printers, school teachers, travelers and publishers may be much affected by the sinister influences of this February eclipse. Newspapers may attract extraordinary attention by exposing many abuses in public institutions. Prisons may be among the places that are investigated.

Earthquakes in this country and Mexico are forecast. Mexico is subject to a planetary rule that is most threatening to the stability of the government.

Women to-day should do all possible to contribute to the happier side of life. Home entertainments and short visits are likely to be most successful.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of unusual experiences. Journeys are indicated.

The Man Hunters

CHAPTER IX

Susan came out of Ernest Heath's office shaken but serene. The divided interview was over and with it had gone her sense of wrathful shame. Jack Waring had apologized manfully, had taken the entire blame for the awkward scene.

All Mr. Heath had said to Susan was, "Waring has explained he was annoying you and has promised it won't happen again."

He had directed a cold, angry glance at the younger man, Waring, who evidently enjoyed playing this particular role, had made a gallant little gesture of defeat and accepted his dismissal with dramatically bowed head.

"That's all, Miss Carey," Heath had concluded. "And now will you take a letter, please?" It had been as simple as that!

Nothing, Susan felt, would surprise her after the events of this altogether surprising day. Over and over again on the way home in a street car teeming with hot humanity she rehearsed the little scene. She could not help admitting that Waring had behaved rather well. But of course it had been his own fault, she assured herself.

"What did you say, Aunt Jessie?" Susan asked absently as she accepted from her aunt's startled hand the letter which she had just received.

Her aunt snatched it, said that young fellow called twice to-night just before you got into the house and said 'I'd be round about eight.'

"What young fellow?" Susan started out of her daze.

"The girl strained back her curls, creamed and splashed and rinsed her face. She bathed and got into fresh clothing. In spite of herself and her almost sullen determination not to feel better, Susan's spirits began imperceptibly to rise. She felt a sense of elation as she surveyed herself in the spotted ancient glass of the oak dresser in her room. A fitful breeze, tiny and yet unobtrusive, began to stir the curtains. It was good to be alive, to be cool and rested after the dreadful day she decided.

Her mood changed. Why shouldn't she, after all, be nice to Ben Lampman? Ray Flannery took every masculine sigh and glance as tribute. Probably Ray was right. Susan had noticed before that the young man's attribute, charm, usually surrounded those lucky girls who were said by their mates to be "popular."

Popular! That terrific and overwhelming word on which the destinies of the young so often hung. Susan wanted to be popular, didn't she? Well, then, why not begin by taking as a gift of the gods the admiration of Ben Lampman?

Life was so strange, Susan reflected, as she set the wave in her hair with abstracted but skillful fingers. Six months before she would have crowded with delight at the notion of Aunt Jessie's allowing her to have a masculine caller. Well, she would look the gift horse in the face no longer! She would smile and be pleasant and obedient to Ben Lampman's moody conversation. She, too, would be charming!

Promptly at eight the young man arrived, almost apologetically neat in his brushed blue serge. Ben was the long-locked type of youth who honestly believes temperament and untidiness go hand in hand—but he was the very pattern of neatness this evening.

"Hello," he said, surrendering his shabby bag. Susan moved over on the porch swing and Aunt Jessie smiled as benevolently as possible.

Ben did not sit down. "I thought, maybe, I wondered if you'd like to go over and see some friends of mine on the north side," he rumbled. "They're very artistic. They're Alice and you'd like them. Having a little sort of party in their studio."

Susan could almost see Aunt Jessie's hair rise at the word. Aunt Jessie with her puritanical visions of undraped models and painters in velvet smocks inquired stiffly, "What kind of folks are they? I'm not sure I want Susan to go."

Ben began volubly to explain. They were all right, he said. The Strinsky Arnold Strinsky made leather screens and doo-dads. A sort of Venetian work. His wife did magazine illustrations.

"Poloche" Acquire inquired suspiciously. Ben said very solemnly, "No. Arnold was a Russian and so was his wife, Sonya. Susan liked the sound of that name. It made her think of a seal-black hair."

Aunt Jessie looked as if she thought Russians little better than the "Poloche" she disliked so much, but after a moment or two of consideration she grudgingly consented. "It isn't your Susan home by half past ten," she stipulated.

The house in which the Strinsky lived was an old brownstone on the north side not far from Lincoln Park. Ben, who had been in New York, told Susan the place was just like Greenwich Village. Ben and Susan believed him. She was a little awed at her good fortune in being introduced to such a charming circle.

The main room of the Strinsky flat was a shock to her at first. The walls were painted with splashes of red and orange. There was a black corduroy couch in one corner and a samovar on a kitchen table that had been painted blue. About the room on soiled cushions and on a few crude chairs were scattered the guests. Sonya Strinsky, who was a pale, olive-haired girl wearing a lavender smock, admitted them. She had long, tired, heavy eyes and her hand was limp. She did not in the least resemble Susan's notion of a Russian princess. The hall smelt of cabbage and there was a dim smoky light in the room through which Susan could perceive the white blurs of faces. A gabble of voices rose. The place seemed intolerably hot. Sonya said to Ben, "You're just in time. They want to dance and you're to play for them."

The young man protested but was dragged to the battered piano in the far corner and Susan left to fend for herself.

It was rather an uncomfortable moment. She dropped into a chair someone had vacated and tried to appear interested as Ben pounded out a jazz tune and two or three weary looking couples swayed to and fro. Sonya excused herself. Said she must go out and help Arnold, who was preparing drinks.

Susan's head began to ache and she wished she had not come. She began to suspect that perhaps she was not really like life, after all. A fat man, informally attired in polo shirt and white slacks, approached and asked

Primly Aunt Jessie replied, "Mr. Lampman, of course."

Susan stared. "And you said—you told him it would be all right?"

Aunt Jessie sniffed. "I did," she said flatly.

Susan could scarcely believe her ears. The idea of Aunt Jessie's endorsing a young man was too preposterous. "I wish you hadn't," she demurred. "I'm tired and look a wreck and besides he bores me to tears."

"He is a very nice young man," Aunt Jessie said levelly. "I think the least you can do is show your manners when he takes such an interest."

Susan's curiosity was piqued. "How do you know he's nice?" she asked.

Aunt Jessie tossed her head. "I forgot to tell you he came over the other night when you were at Rose's and we had a real nice visit. I declare, I don't know when I've met such a steady-going, sensible boy."

Susan lowered her lids to conceal the imp of mischief dancing in her eyes. She was annoyed; none the less, wasn't it just like Aunt Jessie, she thought, to sponsor Ben?

The heat had been increasing all day so that now, in the stillness of the early evening, it seemed actually oppressive. Susan looked forward to a lazy evening after the supper dishes were done. She wanted to lounge on the tiny back porch in the fewest garments possible. That pleasant plan she now must abandon.

Wearily she dried cups and plates and knives and spoons. In silence she dawdled to her room. She hated the thought of entertaining the moody young man Aunt Jessie had chosen for her to smile upon! She could not, this once, fathom her aunt's motives. Usually Aunt Jessie shunned the bare notion of a suitor for Susan.

The girl strained back her curls, creamed and splashed and rinsed her face. She bathed and got into fresh clothing. In spite of herself and her almost sullen determination not to feel better, Susan's spirits began imperceptibly to rise. She felt a sense of elation as she surveyed herself in the spotted ancient glass of the oak dresser in her room. A fitful breeze, tiny and yet unobtrusive, began to stir the curtains. Uncle Wiggly's Snow Shovel

By HOWARD R. GARIS

"You had better look for it to-night and put it in the front hall all ready for to-morrow morning," said Uncle Wiggly as he was looking up the bungalow one evening.

"Get what all ready for the morning?" asked the rabbit gentleman, surprised, for he didn't quite know why the muskrat lady housekeeper was talking about. "What do you mean, Janie?"

"I mean get your snow shovel ready," said Miss Pussycat. "I just put the milk bottle out at the back door and the snow is coming down thick and fast. By morning it will be deep and you will need to make a path for the bunnies. The bunnies can go school. So you had better look for it to-night."

"That's a good idea," agreed Uncle Wiggly. "I'll go down cellar and get my shovel. I'll put it in the front hall and it will be ready for me."

Having placed his shovel near the front door, Uncle Wiggly thought he would take a look at the storm. Nurse Jape had said the white flakes were falling deep and fast.

"It will be very deep by morning," said Uncle Wiggly. "As he was about to close the door he saw, shuffling past in the storm, a black, shaggy shape. It was so large a animal who looked at the rabbit gentleman standing in the doorway of his bungalow.

"That looks like the old Bear who broke through the ice when I was teaching the swan to skate," thought Uncle Wiggly.

Mr. Longears. "I wonder where he got that big shaggy chuffing past in the snow, but I wonder where he is going. I wonder how I can catch the rabbit."

"I wonder how I can catch the rabbit," thought the Bear as he shuffled along through the snow. "I must think of some way to pay him back for making me fall through the hole in the ice. But—oh—oh—I was w and cold that day—almost as cold. I am now, Bur-r-r-r! How it snows!"

Yes, this was the same Bear who had tried to catch Uncle Wiggly when the rabbit gentleman lost his gold ring in teaching the swan to skate. The Bear had been visiting his cousin, Wolf, and was on his way back to his stump house when it began to snow and he had thought, "This is a real snow. The Bear also saw something else. It was the snow shovel that rabbit gentleman had placed near the front door to be ready for work in the morning."

"Ah, ha!" growled the hungry Bear as he shuffled through the snow. "I have thought of a way to catch Uncle Wiggly. He will be out early in the morning cleaning away the snow with his shovel. That will be the time for me to catch him."

All night long it snowed, the white flakes piling up into big drifts. Uncle Wiggly was awake early, but even before he got out of bed Nurse Jape was up to make him some hot carrot coffee.

"It will warm you when you go out to shovel the snow," said the muskrat lady housekeeper. "You are very early, Mr. Longears."

"Yes," said Uncle Wiggly as he slipped his hot coffee. "I'm ready to shovel to-day. But early Uncle Wiggly was the Bear was even earlier. The shaggy chuff shuffled off of his den, and, plowing his way through the snow, went close to Uncle Wiggly's bungalow. There the Bear hid himself up a big white pile.

"Uncle Wiggly will soon be out with his snow shovel," chuckled the Bear. "I'll catch him when he starts to shovel and when he starts to shovel away I can scramble out and grab him. Oh, yes."

ASK TEACHERS TO NAME CUT

Saanich Trustees Summon Teachers to Hear Reeve; Will Invite Proposals

The school teachers of Saanich will be informed of the financial position of the municipality, on Saturday evening, by Reeve Crouch and Councillor W. R. Woods. The school board yesterday evening decided to summon the whole personnel of the teaching staff to a meeting at Mount View High School auditorium, to commence at 8 o'clock, to give representatives of the council an opportunity to present their point of view to the teachers. Trustee F. V. Hobbs is expected to preside.

It is expected that the teachers will be requested, by the council delegation, to accept reductions totaling at least an additional $15,000 above the $2,000 arranged by the 1932 school board. A further cut of $13,000 in the payroll would offset the reductions in government grants recently promulgated by Hon. Josiah Hinchliffe, Minister of Education.

INVITE OFFERS
Following retirement of the council representatives from the hall the trustees will confer in private, with the teachers. They will ask for suggestions as to what additional reductions in salaries will be acceptable, and guidance as to the method of apportioning suggested reductions between the teachers.

The trustees will offer no suggestions of their own, it is understood. The trustees will then ask the teachers to instruct their salary schedule committee to meet the school board in private session on Monday evening at the Municipal Hall, for final settlement of the issue.

Following the Monday meeting the trustees will notify Reeve Crouch of the date they will be able to meet the council and police commission in joint conference on municipal economies.

MANY SAVINGS
It is understood that the school board has practically concluded consideration of the estimates for the year in all respects other than salaries. Savings of small amounts have been attained under many headings, in some cases reductions exceeding $1,000. The aggregate of all economies is understood to be somewhere around $4,000, towards which abandonment of the annual repainting programme has contributed an important amount.

NEW BACON RULES IN GREAT BRITAIN

Manchester, Eng., Feb. 10.—Rt. Hon. Walter R. Elliot, Minister of Agriculture, told an audience here yesterday evening there was a possibility the government might introduce legislation in the Commons next spring looking toward a system of "supply guarantees" for the high-grade bacon industry.

Mr. Elliott said the quantitative regulations introduced last season had come to stay and that experience in their application so far had justified the highest hopes of their proponents.

Producers of bacon in the United Kingdom, he added, were considering a scheme which would enable them to guarantee individually and collectively a definite proportion of the market supply.

REPORT LOANS TO BEAUHARNOIS

Ottawa, Feb. 10.—The money advanced by the Bank of Montreal, the Royal Bank of Canada and the Canadian Bank of Commerce to the Beauharnois Light, Heat and Power Company, and guaranteed by the Dominion Government, totals $15,589,000, according to an order-in-council tabled in the Commons yesterday. As collateral security against this, the banks hold $40,000,000 of first mortgage bonds of the company.

When you feel blue, depressed, sour on the world, that's your liver which isn't pouring its daily two pints of liquid bile into your bowels. BENNETT AND BEATTY
To the Editor:—Our premier, Mr. Bennett, tells us that those who have available capital should turn it to productive use. He does not mention where the opportunity is, but we all know that it is not to be found right here in the timber business. Neither is it to be found in many branches of retail trade.

I presume this is the best that Mr. Bennett can recommend to us. Is it likely to be of any service to us?

Now let us turn to another capital industry, namely E. W. Beatty, K.C. While admitting that the call for assistance to the unemployed demands first attention, but no less inevitable are the demands for payment of interest charges on national indebtedness. I quite agree with Mr. Beatty. We ought to give these interest charges our very best attention more particularly in an endeavor to stop them. Interest has now become the main cause of unemployment both here and in other places; Dominion.

BOHEMIAN DAYS MAY COME AGAIN

Greenwich Village, Prosperity Gone, Now Seeks to Recapture Unconventionality

New York, Feb. 10.—Greenwich Village desperately seeks to recapture its reputation for "bohemianism" and "color." Its little journals of opinion and gossip shriek appeals to villagers to beat back the invading shadows of civic routine.

The "village," they cry, built a national reputation on its unconventionality and this reputation must be captured. Village "revolt," they believe, was its greatest asset.

But alas and alack, in those boom days when money was being tossed to new buildings and even artists' poets made money, things changed.

ONLY STAGNANT PROSPERITY
However, more stagnant times find the Village reblossoming with little groups of debaters; cellar coffee clubs and innumerable eateries where poets, artists and not-quite-wealthy others, now advertise "verse readings" and display their wares in parks and theatre lobbies and empty buildings.

A score of new spots spring up out of Fifth Avenue and in the fourth street environs.

Coffee and tea houses are warm spots for drifting crowds. They lose their old-time character when most of the old money and would go to the star speakies or the chop-houses.

Some of the little places disappeared with old times; now they all flock back. Usual smokes come out of the both-balls and poetic lads have found their old comrades and lumber shops.

OMANY MARIE STILL THERE
However, Marie's remains the oldest and most widely known of Village spots. Marie has been moved about varying times, but she has never even up. The old village knew her in Christopher Street cellars or Greenwich Avenue. She moved from one place to another, according to trade.

But she has never quit, and operates today, bigger and better, in Eighth Street.

KNOWN WORLD OVER
Marie's fame does not end at the orders of Manhattan. Wanderers from Europe, particularly artists, writers, and such, invariably seek her out. And only the "regulars" now how many jobless artists have been given their tea, food and hang-over—and no check tendered. Scores up in, as they would in a small town, aware that they will usually see some of their friends.

It was at Marie's that I used to see Lord Scott, head of the technocratic survey, drooping his long figure over a table and sipping endless cups and

HARTMAN STILL ABOUT

Sadkeli Hartman is another "regular" and perhaps the most picturesque survivor of the old brigade. A brilliant critic, essayist and art authority, Sadkeli was known about the world. Many of his books are still collectors' items.

But youngsters brought up on new literary lions and new theories know little of him. So with unruly, disheveled hair blowing out from under his wide-brimmed black hat, his long, lank figure draped about tables in "the old spots," Sadkeli again parades the Village.

And the Village wants to bring them all back—wants new artistic figures to rise to romantic heights—wants its Bohemianism back—wants its merchants to "Village."

Well, maybe they are not too late.

Seattle Urged Not To Sell Elephant

Associated Press
Seattle, Feb. 10.—Tusko may have a "whale" of an appetite (a bale of hay being merely the breakfast food portion of his menu) and cost the city $8 a day to maintain at the Woodland Park Zoo, but he is worth it.

That was the import of a letter received by the board of park commissioners yesterday, from James W. Davidson of Vancouver, B.C., a member of the Royal Geographical Society.

Mr. Davidson, a writer on scientific subjects, declared he knew much about the seven-ton pachyderm, which he declared was one of the world's greatest specimens and well worth the expense of his upkeep for his educational value to children.

He advised the park board to hold on to Tusko at any price.

The board has failed to reach a decision as to the elephant's future.

Factions Fight In Breslau, Germany

Canadian Press
Berlin, Feb. 10.—Police unexpectedly forbade Republican students from holding exercises to-day on a square before the main hall of Breslau University in commemoration of a student named Steinfield who was killed during a clash with Hitlerites.

As the Republican students emerged from the classrooms to-day they soon found themselves in a fist fight with the Nazis and police had a half hour's work separating the combatants.

London, Feb. 10.—(Canadian Press)—Disappointed that the liberal free traders have not openly opposed the National Government, Major H. L. Nathan crossed the floor to the opposition benches in the Commons. He took a seat beside David Kirkwood, Scottish Labor member.

NEW MEDICAL TREATMENT

Toronto Physician Tells of Success in Case of Bone Sarcoma

Canadian Press
Toronto, Feb. 10.—Use of intravenous injections of the colloidal solution of metallic arsenic has proved successful in the treatment of bone types of cancer, according to the Canadian Medical Association Journal.

The injections were made by A. C. Hendricks, prominent Toronto surgeon, and Prof. E. F. Burton, director of the physics department of the University of Toronto.

The case reported was that of a young married woman of Toronto, and the position of the disease was in the bone of the left leg above the knee.

"At the present time the patient is in good health, free from pain, and is carrying on her usual household duties," says The Journal.

FEWER M.P.P.'S FOR ONTARIO

Canadian Press
Toronto, Feb. 10.—More light official this time was shed on the redistribution bill that is scheduled for the approaching session of the Ontario Legislature, when Premier George S. Henry yesterday evening admitted the government would press for a cut of at least twenty seats "and possibly more" in the present house membership of 112.

SUGAR MILL PLANNED

Winnipeg, Feb. 10.—(Canadian Press)—Planning to establish a beet, sugar refining plant here, A. D. Hilsauber, Amsterdam, Holland, who is associated with one of the world's largest sugar factories, was a visitor here to-day.

MAN MOVED HIS HOUSE

Trenton, Mo., Feb. 10.—(Associated Press)—To Ernest Tolle this week's snowstorm had its good points. Taking advantage of the thick layer of snow on the ground, he placed sled runners under his one-room residence and moved it four miles to a new location.

In computing the number of words in an advertisement, estimate groups of three or more figures as one word. Dollar marks and abbreviations count as one word.

In estimating the number of lines in an advertisement, count five words for the first line and seven words for each line thereafter. This is not an absolute rule, but a number of lines, much depending on the length of the individual words.

The Times will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of any advertisement ordered for more than one issue. In cases of error, the advertiser is responsible. Notices must be made within thirty days from the date of the same, otherwise the claim will not be allowed.

Advertisers who desire it may have notices addressed to a box at the Times Office and forwarded to their private address. A charge of 10c is made for this service.

Subscribers wishing their addresses changed should notify this office, as well as the advertiser, if your Times is being changed before 6 p.m., and a copy will be sent to the advertiser.

NOEL RADFORD
EASY WINNER

Defeats A. E. Pooley, Penticton, 15-6, 15-7, in B.C. Badminton Championships

Vancouver, Feb. 10.—Favorites generally came through in approved fashion as the twenty-first annual British Columbia badminton championships got under way at the Vancouver Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club here yesterday evening.

Play advanced into the third round in the men's open singles, while the other four open events, the second round was reached.

Noel Radford, Victoria, and R. E. Birch, Duncan, champion and runner-up, respectively, in last year's tourney, advanced easily in their matches and appearances are that they will meet again in the 1933 final.

Birch trounced Jack Brown, Vancouver, 17-4, 15-4, in the first round and went on to defeat G. Gostlin, Vancouver, 15-8, 15-8, to enter the third round. Radford drew a bye and downed A. E. Pooley, Penticton, 15-6, 15-7, to enter the third round.

In the women's open doubles, Misses Campbell and Oates, Victoria, won from Misses Bush and Oyles, Vancouver, 15-4, 15-10, in a first-round match. I. V. Saunders, Nelson, and Miss Saunders went down before McMullen and Miss B. Hunting, Vancouver, 15-7, 15-7, while R. Hooper and Miss M. Partington, Vancouver, won from Pooley and Miss McMullen, 15-18, 15-11. In the men's doubles, Radford and Jack Underhill, Vancouver, won from Jack Brown and J. H. Benson, Vancouver, 10-15, 15-12, 15-11.

Uncle Ray's Corner

Books of the Ages

V.—THE KORAN
The name "Koran" means "that which is to be read," and it is read with great zeal by members of the Mohammedan faith. Some of them can recite by memory the entire 77,339 words which it contains.

Arab boys studying the Koran

If you were to ask a faithful Mohammedan where the book was written, he would be likely to reply in this manner: "The Koran was written in golden rays on a great tablet in Heaven. Part by part, the book was brought to earth by the angel Gabriel and was given to Mohammed."

Scholars who do not belong to the Mohammedan faith believe that Mohammed spoke the words, if he did not write them down; and that the Koran was composed between the years 610 and 632. It is not certain that Mohammed knew the art of writing.

DEFECTIVE SPEECH IS NOT A JOKING MATTER

Corrective Measures Must Be Fitted to Individual Cases; Nervousness, Mental Disturbances Frequently Are
to Blame

By DR. MORRIS FISHER

A man who stuttered and stammered went once to a bird store to buy a parrot. In his typical stuttering speech he asked the bird fancier, "C-c-c-an h-h-h-e t-t-t-talk?"

The bird fancier replied, "If he couldn't talk better than you do I'd write him back."

The anecdote, while cruel, represents well the general attitude toward a person with a defect of speech. Somehow it never is taken as seriously as it should be.

The National Society for the Study of Speech Disorders recently has classified seven different forms of speech disorders, with a view to indicating proper approach to correction.

The first, called dysarthria, includes defects that are due to troubles in the nervous system. Such people may express themselves fluently in writing and understand everything they hear or see but are apparently unable to say the things they want to say.

The difficulty is one of tenseness and it is the aim of the instructor to promote the ease of the speech.

People who suffer from this type of defect cannot usually be understood. Because their speech is so slow, difficult and even distorted.

The second form is called dyslalia. In this condition some part of the speech mechanism does not function effectively. Perhaps the difficulty lies in the lips, the tongue, the teeth, the jaws or the hard or soft palate. There are cases of cleft palate, or harelip, in which surgical operation is necessary before the person can speak satisfactorily.

The work of the educator begins after the work of the doctor is ended. In some cases there is a difficulty to get a concentrated and constant stream of breath through the mouth. Breathing exercises, such as the blowing of soap bubbles, gargling and blowing of horns will aid this weakness of function.

Another form of speech disorder is called dyslogia; from the word logos, to speak. In this form there is a difficulty in expressing ideas by speech caused by some mental disturbance. This may take the form of incoherent speech, absence of ideas, slow speech, a constant stream of words to which the term logorrhea is applied, irrelevant speech and constant repetition of the same phrase.

Here, the difficulty being primarily mental, it is necessary to determine the nature of the mental disturbance and to fit the patients to some kind of task, play, or other endeavor for which they are suited.

"Naturalist in the Guiana Forest," by R. W. G. Hingston, describes the marvels of nature life in the equatorial rain forest, especially the life of insects and spiders. The author was leader of the Oxford Exploration Club's expedition to British Guiana in 1929, and much of the work was done in observation posts slung among the trees, so that members of the party might observe forest life at different levels, or at different times of the day.

"First and Second Books of the Gramophone," by Percy A. Scholes, are valuable aids in the selection of gramophone records. The first book gives advice on selection of fifty good records from Byrd to Beethoven and a listener's description of their work music and songs. A glossary of technical terms is also included. The second book continues the work of volume one, and contains notes on the music of fifty records from Mendelssohn to Stravinsky.

"Old English Furniture for the Small Collector," by J. P. Blake and A. E. Revere-Hopkins, describes the main characteristics of furniture from the seventeenth to the nineteenth century, within the limits of 100 pages. "Argentine Tango," by Philip Guedes, is a book of sketches of the Argentine. No other author has caught the spirit of the country so successfully and given his readers such a vivid picture of the people, the country and its customs. This book is well illustrated with photographs.

"Twilight of Royalty," by the Grand Duke Alexander of Russia, is a series of portraits of European royalty to-day. He tells us the stories of the things who are still in their thrones and also the stories of those who have passed into the discard. As the Grand Duke is related by blood and marriage to nearly all of Europe's royalty, he is able to give an intimate account of the various personalities. An interesting feature of the book is devoted to "Keeping the Crown."

"Gold Chord," by Amy Carmichael, is a story of a following in South India. The author tells how the work started, how they proceeded gradually till they had a large and successful mission, and of the place the mission workers now occupy in the hearts of the people they have saved and helped. Their work is mostly concerned with children.

"I Lived With You," by Ivor Novello, is a collection of three plays. Although Ivor Novello is principally famous as an actor, these three plays, the first of which he published, give him a high literary position. His work is something really worth while, though few of his literary attempts have been published. He has a rare sense of humor, quick and subtle, and a great deal of charm and grace.

"Mary Lincoln," by Carl Sandburg, is a moving bit of human history. Her passion for Lincoln through twenty-two years of married life, as the responsibilities of life increased, a fearful doom marked her after Lincoln's death. She sharpened her temper and led her to scandalous behavior. The second part of the book is devoted to documents, letters and newspaper accounts; these are not a mere collection of facts, but clear away popular misconception.

"Ignoramus Book of Home Decoration," by Elizabeth Peacock, is intended for people of modern taste, who are either planning a home or want to know what to do with certain rooms of their homes. The author takes for granted that her readers know very little of the methods and rules of home decoration, what colors, what designs, what arrangements are properly used in the various rooms of small apartments or houses.

"Glimpses Into Infinity," by Frank Hives, records the remarkable psychic experiences of the author. It may seem extraordinary that a man of Mr. Hives' directness should be sensitive to such influences, but not only is this the case, but Mr. Hives is a firm believer in the existence of such things. To believers in the occult the book will be a revelation.

"Twenty Thousand Years in Sing Sing," by Warden Laves, is a very human document and gives a vivid picture of life in the prisons of today. Mr. Laves is an able man and in advance of many other prison authorities in his theories concerning the treatment of prisoners. He is interested in psychology and is a firm believer in the importance of finding a man's mental difficulties.

Other books added during the last week are "Canadian Landscape Painter," by A. H. Robson; "Christmas Plays," by Mrs. Sanford and R. H. Schaffner; "Stardust and Holly," by D. M. Urquhart; "Abstract Design," by Amor Penn; "The Christmas Book," by Thomas Armstrong; "Songs of a Cinema Church," by Thomas Tipaldi; "Poetical Works," by Henry Vaughan; "Scenes and Songs from the Savory Opera," by Sir Arthur Sullivan; "New Songs for New Voices," by L. SAW VARIETY OF WEATHER ON TRIP

Clifford Whelan Experienced Duststorm at Cal-
gary and Rain in Montreal

T. Clifford Whelan, assistant manager at the Empress Hotel, experienced a variety of weather on his recent holiday trip to western Canada. He has just returned after a month's absence in Montreal and elsewhere.

It was raining on the Coast but very cold when Mr. Whelan left January 7. He ran into a snowdrift in the Rockies and was forced to make a detour via the Crown's Nest Pass.

In the region of Calgary he experienced a duststorm, for which the prairies are noted at other periods of the year.

At Winnipeg the glass registered 22 degrees below zero.

When Mr. Whelan reached Montreal he was surprised to find it was raining. The snow did not come until he was leaving on his return to the Pacific Coast.

Westbound, he struck the cold snap on the prairies with low temperatures at Winnipeg, Regina and Calgary.

Mr. Whelan, who is a Montrealeis, says the people of the east are shaking off the depression and are spending more freely. There is a tendency, he says, to accept the economic condition as having reached its climax with more national expenditures in evidence.

The prairie elevators are bulging with grain and although prices are low the farmers have a more hopeful outlook.

The movement of grain westward will soon be on an earnest. The heavy snow on the prairies is indicative of plenty of moisture for the soil and prospects of a good harvest next season.

Mr. Whelan says the Empress winter golf tournament is being talked about and a number of entries are expected from the east.

SOCIETY HEARS TALK ON COLORS

A. M. D. Fairbairn Speaker at Arts and Crafts Meeting

"The Psychology of Color" formed the subject of an address given by A. M. D. Fairbairn Wednesday evening to the members of the Island Arts and Crafts Society in their rooms on Langley Street.

The subject was directly related to art in that suggestions were thrown out concerning the use of certain colors or color combinations where certain emotional or aesthetic reactions were sought either in pictorial work or in interior decoration or dress. Mr. Fairbairn said.

Brief reference was made to experiments on amoebae, earthworms, birds and other members of the lower animal kingdom, as well as on babies, blind people and the hypersensitive showing that sensitivity to color was present both with or without vision and with or without cultivation of sensitivity.

Introduced by Miss Maude Lettice, Mr. Fairbairn was cordially thanked on behalf of the meeting by Mr. D. Cameron, after which refreshments were served.

GOLD STOCKS BOOM COMING

Registrar Explains Limitations of Securities Frauds Prevention Act

"Can Only Give Investor Fair Chance," Real Estate Board Told

British Columbia is about to experience a speculative flutter in gold mining stocks, H. G. Garrett, registrar of joint stock companies, told the Real Estate Board at a luncheon in Spencer's restaurant to-day, and he advised prospective purchasers to inquire of salesmen as to whether their companies were registered under the British Columbia Securities Frauds Prevention Act.

Mr. Garrett discussed the value of the uniform securities frauds prevention legislation enacted in recent years by most of the provinces of Canada. He pointed out that such laws were not new, "blue sky" legislation having been set up by many states of the United States.

Brokers were closely investigated before being given the licenses now required by statute. Mr. Garrett considered matters had greatly improved since the 1920s. He added that many brokers were "patrons" of the industry, being greatly to blame for conditions, having been openly gambling in stocks they had no intention of purchasing securities.

Mr. Garrett told of the audit requirements now in effect, all stock exchanges calling for a regular and also a surprise investigation annually as to the books of all their members. CANNOT BORROW STOCKS

Short selling must now only be practiced by brokers owning their own stock. The old practice by short-selling brokers was to borrow from their clients stocks the brokers desired to sell short.

Company promotion had greatly changed, the being especially notable in the mining field.

"In the boom days brokers sold stock for companies, pocketed the money, and the shareholders were left with nothing at all," he said.

BETTER SHOWINGS

In the last year companies seeking registration were showing a greatly improved set-up, Mr. Garrett said. The department was exerting much care to ensure that, after registration, the company was managed in such a manner as to give the shareholders a fair chance.

He told of successful investigations and prosecutions in regard to various promotions and stock-selling schemes. In some instances, the companies had been obtained with heavy fines and prison sentences. Such cases had been of value as a deterrent to others.

He said that the public has to be fair to every company, but the public has to be protected. Mr. Garrett said, explaining the vagueness of the terms of the act was expressly intended, as a means of giving wide discretion to the Attorney-General and the Registrar of Companies.

ELASTIC STATUTE

The British Board of Trade had investigated supervisory legislation twenty-five years ago and had agreed that such laws were unworkable. From 1912 various states had adopted such measures with varying success and the British Columbia law followed similar lines.

"The law is elastic, drastic and plastic, but is only designed to give the investor a fair chance," he concluded.

BONDS BEING SOLD AGAIN

Provincial Issue of $4,000,000 Now Going Well, Says Hon. J. W. Jones

"British Columbia's recent bond issue of $4,000,000 is now going very well, with an unusually wide distribution," Hon. J. W. Jones, Minister of Finance, announced this morning.

Asked whether he had information that the banks had suspended sale of the issue because of unpopularity, he said, "Some sales, a temporary suspension had taken place some days ago, but distribution had been recently resumed."

A sudden increase in the New York premium was stated by Mr. Jones to have caused the temporary withdrawal of the issue, but conditions were now improved Mr. Jones said.

COAST WRECKAGE CARRIED TO SEA

Canadian Press

St. Georges, Nfld., Feb. 10.—Swirling waters of Bay St. Georges backed up to-day under the force of a gale in the northwest, carrying wreckage of a dozen coastal villages out to sea.

The bay, swelled yesterday before a gale from the south and later from the southwest, flooded the village of Sandy Point and forced its 450 fisherfolk to seek refuge in their attics. Other coastal villages reported losses of property, boats and gear and the total damage will run into thousands of dollars.

No human lives have been lost so far. Fear seized a dozen villages to-day, however, as a full moon threatened to bring the highest tide into the bay to-night.

R. W. Buller, well known to thousands of Victorians registers two laps past the half-century mark to-day. He was born in Peterboro, Ont. Mr. Buller handled magazine stands and other concessions with the Canadian Pacific Railway for over thirty years and was the ticket taker at the Belleville Street depot for some time. An animal lover, he ran Buller's Dog and Pony Circus for a number of years and his tall military figure made him an impressive ringmaster.

P. A. Moir, native son of Victoria, will be extended best wishes from a large circle of friends to-day. He is a North Ward School and the old High School, then went on to the University of Toronto and the old High School. He was a member of the Gyrco Club and was a director last year. Miss E. L. Paterson, Vancouver lawyer, continued her case to-day in the court of appeal before the Chief Justice Morrison for utterances during proceedings.

After having yesterday afternoon won a new trial for Angus MacKachern, sentenced in Vernon to five years in the penitentiary, Miss E. L. Paterson, Vancouver lawyer, continued before the Court of Appeal here to-day, pleading all morning for freedom from an eighteen months' jail sentence imposed upon Ernest Sterton of Chilliwack.

Sterton, who had also been using the name Stevens, was found guilty by a jury at the last session for having nitroglycerine and five detonating caps under a back seat of his motor car when police officers inspected it during a stop in Chilliwack.

Miss Paterson explained how Sterton was on his way to Cultus Lake, where he went each week-end with his family to his summer home, which was not far from the mine he was developing. As his home in Vancouver the police had found a case of dynamite, stored in a box in the trunk of the car, which had been bought from the Canadian Explosives and was being used right along at his mine.

Miss Paterson was conducting her argument when the court adjourned for lunch and she is continuing this afternoon.

In the MacKachern case, he and his companion, Ernest Watson, were found guilty and given five-year terms for entering the offices of the Vernon Growers' Limited, and rifling the safe.

Chief Justice Macdonald in his judgment said he would grant special verdicts on the observations made by Chief Justice Morrison during the trial and on the nature of the evidence.

Mr. Justice Martin entered the view and declared the conduct of Chief Justice Morrison as trial judge and the observations made by him during the trial had had no prejudicial effect upon the jury and therefore the accused men did not have a fair trial.

Mr. Justice McPhillips and Mr. Justice A. Macdonald both supported the view of the majority.

Prosecutor A. M. Johnson, K.C., is appearing on the other side in all the cases.

CAN PAY NO LARGER RENTS

City Cannot Increase Relief Shelter Cost, Real Estate Board Told

The City Council cannot consider payment of more than $5.50 monthly for rent of houses occupied by families on city relief, Major J. C. Holmes advised the Real Estate Board this afternoon at Spencer's Restaurant when reporting an interview with the city's relief committee. Major Holmes said the refusal was due to the attitude of the provincial government, which had summarily rejected suggestions that the government pay more for shelter.

P. B. Pemberton anticipated the city lighting department, the B.C. Telephone Company and the B.C. Electric Railway Company would increase their rates of poles in the future, and a resolution of a joint conference held recently at the instance of the board.

James Forman reported for a special committee which interviewed the City Council's finance committee on tax relief. He submitted the following proposals, which were endorsed:

"That the time for payment of arrears of taxes be extended for five years, on condition that interest be 6 per cent per annum be paid on the amount owing, in addition to the current taxes, during the period."

"That the penalty on unpaid taxes be 1 per cent a month for three months, the remaining 5 per cent to be added on the last day of the year."

A resolution from the Vancouver Relief Board, adopted at a special meeting of probate and succession duty proceedings, was referred to the executive for action. A copy of the resolution will be sent to the Victoria Bar Association and the Vancouver board will be so advised.

DEBATE COURSES IN HIGH SCHOOLS

Canadian Press

Haney, B.C., Feb. 10.—Speaking at the annual meeting of the Fraser Valley Teachers' Association here, Hon. Thomas Hinchliffe, Minister of Education, said the high school course which is under fire in Fraser Valley municipalities, was not designed to satisfy the needs of the pupils. The academic high school education did not give young people knowledge they could make use of, he said. "It was not suited to their needs. The department of Education did not set out the subjects required by the university, he explained, and he did not know how the difficulty could be overcome. If there were to be matriculation and a high school education embracing knowledge that could be made use of, such subjects would have to be included in the university curriculum."

Mr. Hinchliffe reiterated his declaration that the new basis for payment of the government grant toward teachers' salaries would not be lightly changed.

BURIED YESTERDAY

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Walker, Applyby took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Thompson Funeral Home, Rev. W. G. Wilson, D.D., officiating. Many friends attended the impressive service. Numbers of beautiful floral tributes were received. The following were pallbearers: H. Lawrie, W. T. Miller, H. Higgins, William Morrison, H. R. Brown and W. J. Steenson. Interment was made in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

COMPANY REPORTS EGGS RISE DUE TO COLD SPELL

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Feb. 10.—A common fault of annual statements of companies to-day is that of showing "profits" at a value when their market price is reduced by 50 or more per cent, said G. Lyall Fraser, president of the Vancouver Bond Dealers' Association, addressing the general accountants' Association here.

He said many companies presented balance sheets which were technically legal, but basically untrue. It was the duty of accountants, he told his auditors, to prepare statements that told shareholders the whole truth, not merely what directors wanted them to know.

It is forecast prices will probably recede when the cold spell ends, but will not go back quite so far as they were a week ago. Due to the lowness of prices this year poultry stock on Vancouver Island is more than one-third less now than it was a year ago, and the Island has been importing eggs from Vancouver rather than exporting them as previously. There is a shortage in Vancouver at the present time and that the future of prices is uncertain.

NEW WESTMINSTER, Feb. 10.—Egg prices advanced six cents a dozen to producers and eight cents a dozen to retailers for extras at the Royal City market to-day. First and pullet extras advanced five cents a dozen to producers and retail.

This advance was caused by the recent spell of low temperatures and reduced production among valley flocks. Dealers report a strong demand from the east.

Mutton advanced two cents a pound and lamb advanced one cent.

A vote of sympathy to the family of the late Frank Cooke, former active worker in the grain and oil industry and president of the Canadian Pensioners' Association in the club quarters in the Pemberton Building yesterday evening, L. G. Lee was selected as first vice-president and Samuel Saunders was named to the post of second vice-president at the meeting.

THE three greatest women golfers, according to a majority of the experts, are English, namely, Joyce Wethered, Miss Wethered and Miss Wethered. Miss Wethered is probably the greatest woman player who ever swung a golf club. Miss Wethered won the British championship twice, and defeated Helen Hicks, U.S. titleholder, in the international matches. Miss Wethered won the British championship once, defeating the American champion, Glenna Collett Vare. Many wonder why they are better than players from this continent.

Of course, no one can put his finger right on a golfing trouble and say, "this golf fault is better because it does this and so," because even experts do not always agree on the better methods. There is, however, a peculiar twist about golfing methods which may be working against women golfers from this continent. The American system of golf, developed by men, is a smooth, slow swinging game, as contrasted to the snappy, quick swing of the British women. It has worked very well in masculine competition. It is supposed to make perfect timing easier under the strain of competition.

When this smooth, slow, easy-swinging game is drilled into all golfers, it may have another result. A woman or a man who has not much strength in his arms and wrists, doesn't develop much strength playing an easy-swinging game. Players are apt to concentrate on perfect timing, forgetting that perfect timing without strength does not make a championship game. Bobby Jones has strong arms. Tommy Arnold has steady wrists and big hands. Olin Dutra has hands that almost hide the upper half of the club and arms that would do credit to a gymnast. These men, perfect timing means tremendous distance as well as fine direction. To a person with undeveloped arms and wrists, perfect timing means good direction without length.

British women go to golf in a different way. They pound the ball as hard as they can. Thirty or forty of the leading English women golfers are apt to grow out of the Sharkey-Schaaf connection. As Sharkey owns a part interest in Schaaf he may refuse to meet any championship challenge, unless the challenger signs articles to fight Schaaf afterwards. Suppose Schmeling were to meet Sharkey again and win back the heavyweight title. If he had been forced to sign a contract with Schaaf to get the Sharkey fight the Sharkey would collect money from two championship fights. The way Schaaf has been going, there would be no other way to get him in the ring with a champion.

Thus you have a match between English players with strength and timing against opponents with timing alone. Helen Hicks, Maureen Orcutt and Glenna Collett Vare are notable exceptions, because they are all strong long hitters and take a vicious smack at the ball. They are rated among the first eight in the world.

The gentle business of making a racket of the heavyweight championship is apt to grow out of the Sharkey-Schaaf connection. As Sharkey owns a part interest in Schaaf he may refuse to meet any championship challenge, unless the challenger signs articles to fight Schaaf afterwards. Suppose Schmeling were to meet Sharkey again and win back the heavyweight title. If he had been forced to sign a contract with Schaaf to get the Sharkey fight the Sharkey would collect money from two championship fights. The way Schaaf has been going, there would be no other way to get him in the ring with a champion.

Now if Schaaf could only get an understanding woman fighter who would meet to fight with Schaaf, all would be rosy. Title challengers would have to meet so many men under the same management to get a crack at the title that they would give up. In that case Schaaf would remain champion until a ripe old age. Sharkey has a great record for a champion. He has not knocked anyone out for three years, and then his triumph came in the fight with Scott, who claimed a foul. As it later turned out, Scott didn't have much; Strubling knocked him cold, cleanly, in two rounds. Sharkey fought a draw with little Mickey Walker, whom Schmeling knocked out. He outboxed, Carnera, the clown of the heavyweights, but showed little punch, and lost fighting ability even in that bout.

How long does a player last in U.S. professional football? Until thirty-four, if he's a little better. Until thirty-one, if he's a back, according to E. L. Lambeau, coach of the Green Bay Packers. Red Grange is looking about for a coaching job. Ernie Nevers, another of the same age, has already found one. Professional football doesn't offer a long-time job to the college man. At that, it's not as tough as boxing. Coaching jobs are open to pro footballers, and the game doesn't mark them up so that they are unfit for other work. Nobody wants a punch-drunk fighter, with cauliflower ears, and his nose flattened out. A second-hand fighter finds it pretty tough hunting for a job.

Ace of Aussie Batsman in Great Form as Important Match Opens at Brisbane

Larwood's Bowling Displeases Crowd

Home Team in Good Position to Put on Big Score; Richardson Scores 83

Brisbane, Australia, Feb. 10.—Australia had scored 251 runs for the loss of three wickets at the close of play to-day in the fourth cricket test match, against England. Don Bradman, ace of Antipodean batsmen, was not out for 71.

England won two out of the first three games to make this the crucial encounter for the Aussies.

The game was played in intense heat, despite which the fielding was brilliant. More than 20,000 persons applauded vigorously the splendid stand of the Aussie batsman, but at the same time showed resentment at Harold Larwood's resumption of his famous "body-line" bowling tactics.

The English trundlers were not as effective to-day, however, and led by the superb striking of the youthful Bradman the Australian team appeared in good position to knock up a formidable first-innings score. W. M. Woodfull, the Aussie captain, and V. Y. Richardson were the opening pair and were met by the bowling of G. C. Allen and Larwood. Richardson appeared nervous during the "body-line" tactics of the latter, and took no chances. Runs came steadily, including a boundary hit from the new M.C.C. trundler, T. B. Mitchell, and at lunch the score stood at 55.

Hedley Verity joined the English attack but the runs piled up until the century was reached. The "leg theory" appeared mastered, in one over Larwood being hit for 10 runs. Richardson fell by the wicket, but the score at 133 when he tried to chop a well-devised break sent by Wally Hammond. L. E. G. Ames stumped him. Bradman, playing with characteristic "ashes" almost single handed, survived with careful blocking of the occasional ones that were off the wicket. Woodfull meanwhile was playing a very steady innings and reached his 50 after three hours' play.

RUTHLESS POLICY
The sun was pouring down on the field with all its strength and the persistent blocking style of Woodfull in order to keep the Englishmen in the field seemed a ruthless policy. Verity joined Larwood and shortly afterwards the partnership of Woodfull and Bradman reached 50 in 76 minutes.

Woodfull's innings was a masterpiece, the second Aussie wicket fell for 200 runs. Woodfull scored 67. He knocked seven fours. Stanley McCabe joined Bradman and the two, without the bowling of Allen and Larwood until McCabe was caught by D. R. Jardine after scoring 20 in (Turn to Page 17, Col. 2)

Schaaf Favorite In Bout To-night

Jack Sharkey's Protege Is 2 to 1 Choice to Take Bout With Giant Primo Carnera at Madison Square Garden; Schaaf Has Plenty of Confidence

New York, Feb. 10.—Primo Carnera, huge as ever, but with most of the gloss of his early days punched off, can win himself another match with Champion Jack Sharkey to-night, but for Ernie Schaaf there seems only his usual second place berth in the titleholder's stable, win, lose or draw. They meet for fifteen rounds in Madison Square Garden, in the most important heavyweight title of the night. If Carnera should be any chance, Schaaf will have much to say about provisions for future matches only on the basis of a Carnera victory. Primo, with an attorney acting as his manager, agreed to terms for a match with Sharkey in June here, provided that he whips the champion's protege to-night. It was further agreed that if Carnera should be any chance, Schaaf will have much to say about provisions for future matches only on the basis of a Carnera victory. English Football Clubs In Several Late Player Deals

Teams Make Trades Before Time Limit Expires; Neil Dewar to Manchester

Important Games Carded To-morrow

Rangers Will Clash With Motherwell in Feature Game of Scottish League

London, Feb. 10.—Activity in the soccer player market yesterday marked the beginning of the last-minute rush to close deals before the time limit expires. Transfers and talk of transfers overshadowed interest in to-morrow's English League matches.

Outstanding among the deals announced was the transfer of Neil Dewar from Third Lanark to Manchester. United. The fee was not made public, but club officials said it was "substantial."

Raid, Preston North End's outside right, was the principal in another important deal, going to Blackpool. Halifax has secured Tunstall from Sheffield United and he will be eligible to play in his new team's further cup matches, as he has not been on a cup side this season.

Several clubs have been after George Bradley, Rotherham, but Sheffield Wednesday outbid them for the centre half. In addition to a substantial fee, the Wednesday are sending Victor Watson, an inside forward, whom they got from Rotherham, back to his old team.

MATCHES TO-MORROW
First division matches, to-morrow, should provide plenty of sparkling soccer, battling to retain second place, won in a mid-week defeat of Leeds United. Sheffield Wednesday find their path barred by the strong West Bromwich Albion outfit. Aston Villa will be striving to again tie the Wednesday when they meet Chelsea, but they, too, will find their task a hard one.

SWIMMING CLUB RETURNS HEAD
Capt. M. D. Harbord Re-elected President of V.A. S.C.; Reports Submitted

Members of the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club, at a well-attended meeting in the Crystal Garden yesterday evening, re-elected Captain M. D. Harbord president for the ensuing year, filled other posts on the executive, heard constructive reports and enjoyed some splendid films showing some of the leading swimmers and divers in the Olympic Games in action.

The complete slate of officers named at the meeting follows: Honorary president, R. W. Hibberd; honorary vice-presidents, A. H. Cowlishaw; president, Capt. M. D. Harbord; vice-president, George L. Warren; secretary, H. J. Mason; treasurer, W. T. M. Barrett; starter and lifesaving instructor, W. T. Shylock; club coach, Fred Ellison; club captain, Ivor Fuller; vice-captain, Doreen Dale-Johnson; executive, Mrs. Barrett, Mrs. McAllister, T. P. Fairbairn and Bev Horton.

Polar Bear pins were presented to competitors in the last Christmas Day swim. In his report Captain Harbord sketched briefly the activities of the club during 1932, noting the success of the school children's gala and the Helene Madison meet.

Thanks were extended to F. C. and Mrs. Ellison for the excellent work they had done in helping the club along and a vote of appreciation was passed to the press for its support. The financial statement showed the club during 1932, noting the success of the school children's gala and the Helene Madison meet.

It is altogether possible one of both may meet defeat. Bradford City and Bury, grouped three points behind the leaders, also have tough opposition, the former playing at Port Vale and Bury meeting West Ham United.

Glasgow, Feb. 10.—Clashes between Rangers and Motherwell, tied in points for leadership, and Hearts and Celtic, knotted together in second place, offer Glasgow and Motherwell soccer fans Scottish League first division games of rare interest to-morrow. Leadership will be at stake at Motherwell. Weirled in two recent hard-fought cup draws with Queen's Park, Rangers must travel to the Lanarkshire city to battle with their rivals, whom they now lead on their goal average.

Celtic are at home in Glasgow to Hearts in the other big battle of the day. Each, with thirty-nine points, five behind the leaders, they will be fighting for third place in the standings.

Another tie, between Aberdeen and St. Johnstone, who are four points behind Hearts and Celtic, may be broken to-morrow. St. Johnstone have the better chance of going into the lead as they take on the lowly Ardronians, while Aberdeen must play Third Lanark. Both tied teams play away from home.

NO EASY TIME
If Queen's Park keep up the standard set in cup play, St. Mirren will have no easy job even with the advantage of home grounds. Hamilton Academicals have an opportunity of pulling nearer Aberdeen and St. Johnstone when they meet Ayr United.

The two Rovers teams, Raith and Albion, tied for fifth place, meet in the most evenly-matched battle of the second division. The Wednesday should add further to their seventh point lead over Queen of the South when they take on Arbroath. Stenhousemuir, too, should have no great difficulty taking Brechin City. Queens and Dumfries were scheduled to play Boness and Armadale, teams which have withdrawn.

Davies Boys Score Pair of Victories In Speedy Battles

Albie Puts Tommy Santos Away in Sixth Round; Jumbo Decisions Pastor Calope

ROUSING FINISH WINS FOR JUMBO

Danny Pastro Awarded Bout on Knockout; Preliminaries Produce Action

Albie and Jumbo Davies, Victoria's two leading fighters, hung up a pair of sweet victories at the Pacific Stadium yesterday evening. Albie scored a knockout in the sixth round over Tommy Santos, Manila, and Jumbo was awarded a judges' decision over Pastor Calope, another Filipino, in ten of the most bruising rounds seen in a local ring for many a day. The card staged under the auspices of the Victoria Boxing Club was a first class one and the good crowd of fans was well satisfied.

Showing all the confidence of a champion Albie fought a heady fight to register his victory. He looked a huge bear, better than in his last appearance when he dropped a ten-round verdict to Ted Morgan. He was hitting harder and faster and was too strong for Santos, although he only landed a few punches. He was firing and landing on face and body but they did little damage and the local boy ended the fight unmarked.

Jumbo won the nod mainly on his rousing finish in the final round. Calope proved plenty tough and produced a beautiful left hook to the body that landed with monotonous frequency on Jumbo's ribs but it failed to slow up the blonde slugger. Jumbo had a big edge in the infighting and the Filipino took several body punishment every time he got in close. During the clinches Davies usually worked his arms like a pair of well-oiled pistons, cutting down the boy from Manila. Although he took plenty, Calope showed no signs of weakening until the last two rounds. Jumbo drew blood early from Calope's mouth and at the finish he was pouring blood.

Calope, a puzzling, flat-footed fighter started slowly and in the first round it looked as if Jumbo would be an easy winner. However, the Filipino held his own, and in the second and third rounds started a sweeping left hook into Jumbo's mid-section. In this round Calope caught Jumbo off balance, took a left to the chin and Davies went down on a count only to be up without a count only to be down again with a right to the chin, but he was up fighting and undamaged.

STARTS TO BLEED
In the fifth Calope started bleeding from the mouth and the blood continued to flow for the remainder of the match. The pair showed the fans some real slugging in the seventh round, the best of the match. In this round Calope drew no less than eight solid left hooks into Jumbo's body but they had no telling effect. Davies kept jumping right in and his hands were flying and landing on face and body. Jumbo continued to have the edge in the eighth and ninth. With the opening of the final round Davies went out after a knockout and although he punished the Filipino badly he was unable to put him away. Calope clinched frequently, and was hanging on at the bell. Both judges cast their votes in favor of Jumbo.

KNOCKOUT VICTORY
After drawing blood from Santos' nose in the third round from a steady series of right hooks to the face Albie went right after his opponent. Santos was able to catch Davies several times with a fast left to the chin and body but Albie kept boring in. Albie pinned Santos for the knockout in the sixth round. (Turn to Page 17, Col. 3)

MUCH IMPROVEMENT Expected in Sox
Chicago, Feb. 10.—Owner Lou Comiskey has it all figured out how his White Sox will win a first division berth in the American League race this year.

"We lost thirty-two games by one run last year," he said. "Our greatest improvement has been the acquisition of Al Simmons, Mule Haas and Jimmy Dykes. These fellows drove in more than 300 runs in 1932. The player they will supplant drove in only 182. The result should give us at least 12 more runs next season—about enough to win almost half of those thirty-two we dropped last year. And sixteen more victories would put us in first division."

Peden-LePage Are Leading In Points

Victoria Bike Rider and His Montreal Partner Dominate Sprints in St. Louis Race to Secure 136 Points; One Lap Behind Two Leading Teams

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 10.—Sprints, jumps and spills had failed to join the German and Bohemian teams from their positions as trail blazers in the six-day international bike race when the thirty-hour mark was reached this morning. The leaders had covered 548 miles and nine laps. Right at their heels, a bare lap behind, followed the Canadian team of Torchy Peden, Victor B.C. and Henri LePage, Montreal; Lou Elder, Toronto, and Harry Moran, Newark, N.J., and the Swiss combination, Peden and LePage, however, were far in the lead in the point total, with 136 compared to 98 for the Germans and 62 for the Bohemians.

This will be followed by a sudden-death game in the men's senior C division between the Victoria Centennials and Ganges. In the final game slingers will clash with Duncan in the first of a two-game series in the men's senior B section. The first game will start at 7.30 o'clock.

REGINA PATS IN HOCKEY FINALS

Regina, Feb. 10.—Al Ritchie's famous Pats will again represent Regina in the race for provincial and Dominion hockey honors. The Pats crew yesterday evening defeated the Maple Leafs of Regina 5 to 0, to take the two-game series by a 7 to 0 count.

The Pats, who were the defending champions of the second period by the Ritchie crew scored twice within fifteen seconds and then added three more for good measure in the final canto. Strong, Armstrong, Cairns, Cunningham and Rittinger were the goal scorers.

Jack Taylor Wins Over Jagat Singh
Calgary, Feb. 10.—Jack Taylor, claimant of the British Empire heavyweight wrestling crown, defeated Jagat Singh, Hindu grappler, in two straight falls in the feature bout of a wrestling card here yesterday evening. Taylor took the first fall in twenty-three minutes even and disposed his opponent in one minute and two seconds for the second fall.

Ottawa Goalie Blocks Sixty Shots; Montreal Maroons Lose to Boston

Montreal Maroons might have been causing a degree of two of worry in Toronto's title camp to-day, but for a sudden wild streak on the part of Eddie Gerard's firing squad. Unable to settle their sights, Maroons dropped a 1 to 0 decision yesterday evening to Boston Bruins and remained three games behind the Leafs in the National Hockey League's Canadian division.

It was the first defeat in eight games of the rugged Redmen. New York Rangers dropped back to second place in the United States section. While the Detroit Red Wings were posting a 4 to 1 victory at Chicago over the Black Hawks, 5,000 fans saw Ottawa Senators hold Rangers to a 3 to 3 tie in a deadlock that allowed the Wings to move a point in front in the standings. Billy Beveridge was responsible for the Bluebirds' failure.

BEVERIDGE STARS
Beveridge stood off the New Yorkers, while his mates found sufficient openings in the Rangers' defense to build the tilt into an overtime battle. Beveridge stopped sixty shots, compared with twenty-one, Andy Aitkenhead turned aside. At Chicago Charlie Gardiner's defence failed him in the third period to allow Detroit forwards to swarm all over him and score three times. Herbie Lewis, Johnny Gallagher and Larry Aurie punched the puck past Gardiner to provide the winning margin after each team had scored in the second period. Lewis got the first, Detroit goal, Doc Romnes rattling in the lone Hawk tally.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—Detroit Red Wings swooped into first place in the American division of the National Hockey League yesterday evening by trouncing Chicago's Black Hawks, 4 to 1. The Wings held out even for two periods, broke loose in the last period to hammer in three goals, with Herbie Lewis, Johnny Gallagher and Larry Aurie doing the damage to the Hawks' chances. Lewis scored the first goal early in the second period, and about three minutes later Doc Romnes tied it up for Chicago. After that, the Wings had much the better of the going.

Detroit regained first place in the division as the New York Rangers were held to a three-goal tie by Ottawa. SUMMARY

New York, Feb. 10.—With Billy Beveridge, young Ottawa goalie, in the hero's role, the Senators and New York Rangers played a 3 to 3 overtime tie yesterday evening in a National Hockey League contest marked by spotty play and break goals.

Beveridge stopped sixty shots the Rangers sent at him, nineteen in the first period, and was largely responsible for the tie although Allan Shields and Harvey Rockburn presented a strong defence in front of him.

Conney Welland, Ottawa, and Murray Murdoch, Rangers, got the fluke goals. Welland's shot appeared to have been blocked by goalie Andy Aitkenhead, but the goal umpire ruled it had crossed the line into the cage. Murdoch got the final tie on an attempted pass out from behind the net which took a couple of bounces and finally went off Beveridge's skate into the net behind him.

Bill Cook and Butch Keeling made the other scores for the Rangers, and Bill Touhey and Desse Roche for Ottawa.

A scant 5,000 fans, smallest crowd of the season, saw the game.

Boston, Feb. 10.—A brilliant goal by Neil Stewart gave Boston Bruins a shut-out victory over Montreal Maroons, 1 to 0, yesterday evening in a lively National Hockey League tilt, at the Boston Gardens. The visitors put on a blistering attack in every period, but their poor marksmanship prevented them from getting a tally to match the one registered by their former teammate.

Stewart's counter came early in the first period, after Vic Ripley rushed and intercepted a pass from Jimmy Ward, who had poked-checked him. The former Black Hawk, who has not scored a goal on Boston ice in five years' play, diverted the rubber to Stewart and, burly centre closed in before beating goalie Dave Kerr with a high shot.

fifth. While the Filipino was weaving in a corner Davies cut loose with a left to the chin and followed it with a right to the same location and Santos went down near the ropes. He rose to his feet at the count of nine and the bell rang right after.
Albie met Santos in the middle of the ring as the sixth opened and after watching for an opening dropped the Filipino with a right to the stomach. Santos was on one knee at the count of ten and rose to his feet after the referee had lifted Albie's hand in token of victory.
Just previous to this bout Eddie Ivory, Vancouver, challenged the winner. Ivory whipped Jumbo Davies in a four-round draw.
Danny Pasto was awarded a knock-out victory over Jack McEvoy, Duncan.

FELIMINARIES
The three four-round preliminaries produced lots of action. In the opener Dave Barr and Morry Graham, two willing youngsters, battled to a draw. Graham had the misfortune to break a thumb during the encounter.
"Scotty" McIlwain and Jack Poyer engaged in a four-round draw.
Danny Pasto was awarded a knock-out victory over Jack McEvoy, Duncan.

These Comeback Kids Hold the Key

TWO men hold the key of the heavyweight championship situation. They are Max Baer and Ernie Schaff, and both have come back after disappointing reverses in the prize ring.

After promising starts, both went the same way, basking in the bright lights. Each suffered setbacks at the hands of second-rate fighters. And each has battled his way back to the top by marked conquests and rigid training.

Schaaf is to fight Camera for a chance at the championship; Jack Sharkey. Baer is to battle Max Schmeling, logical championship contender, for the privilege of a crack at the Boston Squire's chin.

AL KARASICK WILL RETURN

Russian Heavyweight to Meet Fred Maracci on Card Here To-morrow Night

To-morrow evening's wrestling card at the Pacific Stadium will feature a double main event, with both bouts scheduled to go six ten-minute rounds. In the first half Al Karasick, Russia, will go up against Fred Maracci, clever young heavyweight from Chicago, while the second bout will bring together Bob Kruse, Portland, and Nanjo Singh, India. Reg. Hopkins will oppose Lloyd Fenlon in the opening preliminary.

The first bout will start at 8:40 o'clock.
This will be Karasick's first appearance in a local ring for two years. A veteran of the mat game, he is powerful and clever. Maracci made a fine showing in a bout here last week and is figured a capable opponent for the Russian.

When Kruse tackles Nanjo Singh he will be seeking revenge for a defeat suffered in Seattle a few weeks ago at the hands of the Hindu. This bout will be refereed by Karasick, who should be capable of handling the rough Portlander.

McEvoy claimed a foul in the second round and was awarded the bout, but Referee Teddy Beales reversed his decision after the Duncan boy had been examined by Dr. J. P. McEvoy. McEvoy declined to come back to the ring to continue the two remaining rounds.

The preliminaries were refereed by Teddy Beales, while Pat Steele handled the Davies-Santos bout and Joe Bayley was third man in the Davies-Caloche match.

SPORTS WEEK FEATURE RUGBY GAME CANCELED

For the second time this week Old Man Weather stepped in and put an end to the efforts of Victoria rugby players to aid the Kiwanis charities to-day. The special match between two Victoria rep teams, scheduled to-morrow as one of the headlines on the final day of sports week, was definitely canceled by Russell Ker, president of the local rugby union, when grounds were found unplayable through the hard frost.

Previously the fixture billed between Victoria College and Victoria High School on Wednesday had been called off on account of ground conditions.

The local rugby head expressed the regrets of his organization over its inability to aid the club in the charity drive when announcing the cancellation of the game.

Tickets sold for the match will be accepted at another charity game similar to the one scheduled for to-morrow later in the season.

CONDITIONS OF BEACH BETTER

Sir Malcolm Campbell May Seek New Auto Speed Record To-morrow Or Sunday

Daytona Beach, Fla., Feb. 10.—Marked improvement in beach conditions yesterday evening gave promise that Sir Malcolm Campbell, here seeking to break his own world automobile speed record of 253 miles an hour, might soon be able to make his trials.

Racing officials inspected the course and said the British driver should be able to put his giant run to-morrow or Sunday.

Sir Malcolm said, however, it might be Monday before the long stretch of sand smooths out sufficiently to permit high speed racing.

Although the ten-day period set for the trials began to-day, racing officials said it would be almost impossible for the Briton to make a test run then. When Sir Malcolm takes the wheel of his Bluebird, to dash over the sands, a system of timing, unfamiliar to the latter, will be used.

At the start and finish of the measured sandy mile will be stretched wires about three inches above the hard floor of the natural track.

As Campbell's front wheels strike the first wire a switch is thrown setting in operation an electrical apparatus which is far more accurate than the nearest finger on a stop-watch. When the car leaps into the "tags" at the end of the mile the apparatus stops.

COLLEGE RUGBY TEAM

To The Sports Editor:—According to The Daily Colonist one would think the Victoria College rugby team had committed a deliberate crime. Such, apparently, is not true. Following are the facts as I understand them.

On Tuesday of last week, Bob Mabee entered the college dressing room, asking permission to turn out for practice. Consent was given, and during the conversation Mabee mentioned that he thought he was good enough for senior A rugby, stating at the same time that he had not signed up for any team in town, which, to any sane man, would obviously leave him free to sign up for College. He did so, being the only man available to fill a vacant position, according to College extant regulations.

On Friday President R. Ker of the Rugby Union, phoned College, saying they could not play Mabee as he had played two games for the Scottish team, and although he was not signed up, was "morally" the "property" of that team.

The College captain and coach, along with Mabee, then interviewed Bob Mabee, who gave his consent, saying that as far as they were concerned Mabee could play for the College. R. Travis of the Scottish team, was then interviewed and said that as he had omitted to sign Mabee up, and as College were short of players, he would willingly relinquish his "moral" control of Mabee, at the same time inviting him to play for Scottish next season. These were the men concerned and all gave their consent. The result follows:

suit was the crime we read in the morning paper.
I would like to ask the following questions:
1—According to the minutes of the Rugby Union there was no meeting between Tuesday and the time President Ker phoned College which in any way authorized his action. Therefore what right had Ker to take that action?
2—As consent was given by those concerned was it any of President Ker's personal business to dictate to College what they should do?
3—At the regular meeting on Tuesday no complaint was even thought of, until it was brought up by the man in the chair; not only did he bring the matter up, but after a prolonged period in which he gave vent to his hurt pride, deliberately, and still from the chair as chairman, influenced the decision of those present, and ruled that College should "defer" the game. To what the usual procedure of chairmen?
4—What right had this gathering to force the Scottish to take Mabee as a player in spite of efforts of College, of Scottish, and of the consent of Mabee, the man who does the playing? Have rugby players become professionals?

College and Fifth Brigade played good rugby on Saturday and both were satisfied with the outcome of the game. Does the Rugby Union want to kill the morale of these teams with such decisions? Why not give these teams credit for their hard fought games, for their daily practice, and for the satisfaction that they derive from playing of the game itself?

College has been hounded practically out of the league during the last three years. I predict that there will be no College team entered next season if this kind of thing is not stopped. This is Sports Week. Why not try to be sports just for this one week?

Just a Woman Be Beautiful to Be Loved?—Far From It, for the Plain Girl Develops the Charm That Attracts, While the Living Picture Becomes Spoiled by Homage, and Her Selfishness Repels

MUST a woman be beautiful in order to be loved? Probably most people would say "yes" without even stopping to consider the subject. That women believe good looks the necessary bait with which to go a-fishing for a husband is indisputably proved by the millions of dollars they spend every year in beauty shops and on cosmetics, and the agony they endure to acquire wavy hair and a slim and willowy figure.

Men are also firmly convinced in their own minds that they are beauty worshippers, and that nothing but good looks ever attract them toward a woman. When you tell a man about a strange girl, he never asks: "Is she beautiful?" Is she intelligent? "Is she an interesting person to talk to and be with?" The only thing he ever wants to know about her is whether she is any on the eyes or not.

According to history, the women of the past who enslaved men were only those who had faces that could launch a thousand ships. And in these modern days it is feminine beauty, and not brains, that draws down the heaviest pay envelopes. And every little flapper knows that it is the maiden with the peaches-and-cream complexion, and not the plain Jane, who has dates to burn and dozens of cut-ins in every dance.

From all of which it might well be argued that pulchritude is a necessity to a woman in love, and that no homely lady could hope to inspire the tender passion in a man's heart. Undoubtedly, both men and women are committed to this belief, yet so strange and inexplicable a thing is human nature that we are confronted with the strange paradox that in spite of men's theoretical adoration of beauty, the beauty seldom skims the cream off the matrimonial market.

When they go to marry, men don't pick out the best-looking woman they know, as you can easily prove by a casual glance at the married women of your circle, not one of whom could ever have qualified for the follies or been chosen as Miss America in a bathing-beauty contest.

Likewise you will note that the most beloved wives you know, those with the most devoted and faithful husbands, are often just plain, stout, ordinary-looking women, with no style to them, than they are ladies with classical profiles and who look like a daily hint from Paris. It is significant that the cinema heroines, who are chosen for their pre-eminent beauty and who set the standard of feminine pulchritude, seem less able to hold the affections of men than any other women in the world. In all of their many divorces there is no record of a husband committing suicide or wearing the willow for his former wife.

All of this should prove something. It probably is that while men admire a living picture they seldom desire to hang it on their own walls and are perfectly willing to let some other man enshrine it in his house. For themselves they prefer a chromo. Or, if not that, at least some minor work of art that will not require such an expensive frame nor be so hard to live up to.

No one will deny that beauty is an aid to a woman in capturing a husband. It is a grand little omelette for she must first attract a man's attention. She must make him aware of her before she can get in her fine work, and that is where a pretty face counts. At the beginning. Afterward it doesn't matter.

If a woman can once catch a man's attention and she has personality and charm and fitness, she can give any beauty a run for her money, no matter if her face is just an assemblage of useful features and her figure makes her dressmaker weep.

For she has something that the beauty seldom has, and it is a charm to conjure with, far more potent where men are concerned than good looks. It is a readiness to admire instead of a demand to be admired. It is a willingness to get busy with the pink sticks before a man instead of expecting him to spend his time burning incense before her. It is displaying gratitude and appreciation for favors received instead of taking them for granted and as a reserved tribute to a superior being.

The beauty, just by reason of having always been admired and kept to and having everybody sacrifice to her, inevitably becomes spoiled and high-hat toward others. These qualities are not the food of love and explain why men so often get fed up on her.

A man may be attracted to a woman because she appeals to his esthetic sense, but he falls in love with her because she answers some deeper need than that of pleasing the eye. He falls in love with her because she jolies him and makes him feel that there is one human being at least who appreciates how big and fine and wonderful he is. Or he falls in love with her because she is sympathetic and understanding. Or because she is entertaining and amusing. Or because she mothers him. Or just because she loves him. And her looks have very little to do with the matter, barring, of course, that she is not a scare-crow.

And so I say that the answer to the question, must a woman be beautiful to be loved, is emphatically NO. Beauty is in the eye of the beholder, and any woman who is good to a man looks good to him.

JAPAN ORDERS MORE WARSHIPS

Tokyo, Feb. 10.—Included in Japan's 1933-1934 naval building programme are two cruisers, patterned after the recently new German "west pocket" type of battleship, a submarine and two destroyers, the Imperial Diet was told here today.
The cruisers, Minister of Navy Count Togo, told the Diet, will cost approximately $48,760,000. They will be 8,500-ton vessels—capable of thirty-three knots. Where they will be built was not stated, but it is expected the great naval dockyard at Nagasaki, on the island of Kyushu will do the work.
First of their type built by Japan they will have triple gun turrets forward and double turrets aft, Count Togo said. They will incorporate the German naval principles which have sacrificed heavy defence armor to speed and maximum armament.

How to End Terrible Agony Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

That is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give permanent relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Your itching, bleeding or protruding Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause and not one minute before. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used.

HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. B. S. Leachman, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, and restores the almost dead parts.

HEM-ROID has such a wonderful record of success in even the most stubborn cases that MacFarlane and Vancouver Drug Stores and all good druggists advise every sufferer to get a bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets to-day. They quiet and your Pile agony or money back.

TRICK RIDERS WILL PERFORM

Motor Bike Aces to Do Stunts at Indoor Track Meet To-morrow Evening

Trick motor bike riders of Victoria will present their daredevil feats during the indoor track and field meet at the Horse Show Building to-morrow evening. It was announced to-day.

For and Rob-Shanks and Cecil Frumpton will form the trio which will thrill the crowds with their performances on the machines. Frumpton and Reg Shanks are slated to give exhibitions of a fantastic riding act. Bob-Shanks will broadjump with his racing motor bike.

Final arrangements were being made at the Victoria Horse Show building for the meet. The sawdust was removed, the boxing and wrestling ring was installed and the track mapped out for the various sports.

Competitors must secure passes from the Y.M.C.A. to gain admittance to the function which will climax the sports week activities.

The gala programme will open at 7:45 o'clock with selections by the Shrine Band.

In spite of the cold, a good crowd is expected to be on hand for the feature. The well constructed building will keep off much of the bite of the weather and spectators warmly dressed and using rugs should be comfortable.

A well-attended meeting and together social of the Parent-Teacher Association was held in the school house on Wednesday evening. Heretofore, the association has been held in the hall of the school.
